ARMY BAND TO PLAY HERE IN CO. H PROGRAM

Fort Hayes Musicians Coming for State Guard Induction Tuesday Night.

The Fort Hayes post band will come to Marion to play at the ceremony inducting Co. H into the Ohio State Guard next Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Harding stadium, it was announced today as plans were being developed for the major muster program.

Adjutant General Donald F. Pancoast and his staff will be here and Colonel Christy of the Ohio State Guard staff will be the inducting officer.

William Campbell Beer, Bucyrus attorney, will be the principal speaker.

Arrangements to have the 20-piece Fort Hayes post band, considered one of the finest post bands in the country, come to Marion was authorized by Col. H. Taylor, post adjutant, through Capt. Edward J. Glinski. The band is directed by Warrant Officer Wilson.

The band will travel in two army trucks.

Escort Planned

Men of the motorcycle corps of the civilian defense organization will meet the trucks and Adjutant General Pancoast's party at the Harding memorial and serve as an escort to the stadium.

Discussion of plans for the Marion induction, one of the few times the city will see the ceremony of mustering an entire company into service, was held in Columbus Thursday by George D. Hildebrandt, commander of the civilian military training program, and Dr. T. H. Sutherland, of the civilian defense medical corps.

Governor John W. Bricker will be extended an invitation to attend the ceremony, those in charge said today.

London, Marysville and Delaware units of the same battalion as Co. H in the 2nd Regiment will come to Marion and the Kenton and Bucyrus units will be invited to attend.

Defense Units Called

W. R. Martin, coordinator of civilian defense and his assistant, W. E. Orcutt, have asked that all civilian defense units attend and that each put on a demonstration of its part in the civilian defense set-up.

Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, Marion Post No. 3313, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Navy club have been invited to attend in uniform and to appoint delegates to meet with Mr. Hildebrandt and arrange for the organizations' participation in the program.

Time of the ceremony was changed from 7:15 to 7:30 to accommodate the post band and the adjutant general's party.

28-DAY STRIKE AT HOTEL IS ENDED

Agreement Signed by Union and Hotel Harding.

The 28-day Hotel Harding walkout strike of employes who are members of A. F. of L. Local 810, Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders Union, ended yesterday when hotel and union officials met in the office of Malcolm Strelitz, attorney for the hotel management.

The agreement reached yesterday and covered in what is known as a maintenance union contract involves the following [illegible] points:

The union is recognized as the [illegible] bargaining agent; present non-union employes are not required to join the union; present union employes are required to maintain membership in the union; employes after a probationary period are required to become members of the union. Employes who have been on strike are to be offered reemployment without compensation for the period they were off duty.

The contract includes a general increase in the minimum wage [illegible] and provides for [illegible] one week with pay [illegible] employes who have been in continuous service for a year.

According to yesterday's agreement the contract can be terminated by either party on 60 days' notice.

RUBBER YIELD NEAR 150 TONS

Reports Show Marion County Averages 6 Pounds Per Capita to Date.

Marion county residents had turned in 290,081 pounds of rubber at filling stations up to today in the nationwide drive, county drive leaders reported this morning.

Another development today was the announcement by the county petroleum industry co-chairmen, H. A. Krigbaum and L. P. Sharkey, that Marion county residents to date have turned in an average of six pounds of scrap rubber per capita.

This, Mr. Krigbaum said, ranks well with the other counties in Ohio according to statistics from the state headquarters, but there are still some 12 Ohio counties above us."

Figures for Nearby Counties

Other counties in the Marion area are credited with the following per capita yield of scrap rubber to date:

Crawford, 4.2 pounds; Wyandot, 4.2 pounds; Morrow, 5.9 pounds; Hardin, 4.5 pounds; Union, 5.1 pounds; Delaware, 5 pounds.

The co-chairmen today issued an appeal for residents of Marion county to make their Fourth of July celebration completely patriotic by spending part of the day in a final search of their houses and garages for scrap rubber, pointing out that the national goal can not be reached unless many more pounds are salvaged.

A report today from C. O. Brown, chairman of the industrial scrap rubber drive in Marion, showed industries here have turned in 8,500 pounds of scrap rubber to date. Some unusual gifts are among this total, an example of which is between 500 and 600 pounds of unusual new rubber which was turned in by the Marion Metal Products Co. because it had become obsolete in the form in which it was made up. It originally cost the company about $200.

State Report

Meanwhile, a report from the state headquarters in Columbus credited Marion county with 272,549 pounds of scrap rubber as of July 1. The Associated Press reported.

Robert O. Weible, executive secretary of the collection campaign for Ohio, declared the rubber salvage job is only half completed. He said reports show only 50 per cent of the available rubber has been turned in. The drive will end July 10.

John Owens Resigns in Split with Murray

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 3—John Owens resigned as Ohio CIO president today because of what he termed national CIO President Philip Murray's "obnoxious attacks" on John L. Lewis, former president and founder of the congress for industrial organizations.

Owens also stepped aside as national CIO representative, but he will retain the sixth district presidency of the United Mine Workers union, which Lewis heads.

Long a prominent figure in Ohio labor circles, Owens recently has been active nationally in war labor relations.

TANKS CLASH ON RED FRONT

Greatest Battle of Current German Drive Raging on Kursk Front.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 3—The greatest tank battle of the current German offensive, with hundreds of machines engaged on both sides, is in progress east of Kursk while 75 and 100 miles to the south Nazi shock troops are attempting to outflank and separate the Russian central and southern armies, Soviet military dispatches reported today.

The battle on the Kursk front began Wednesday morning with an attack by about 200 German tanks, the dispatches said.

These were hurled back, and then the real mass engagement began at noon that day.

The Germans have suffered tremendous losses, and in the thick of battle the Red army has managed to increase the fortifications of its already-strong positions, said Red Star, the army newspaper.

Few details were given, but the Russians were said to have recaptured several villages.

Kursk Is Key

Kursk, a key front in the present conflict is about 280 miles south of Moscow and 125 miles north of Kharkov.

To the south, the new German thrusts were in the Belgorod and Volchansk sectors, 50 and 35 miles north and northeast of Kharkov.

At these points, roughly midway in the battleline from Kursk to Kupyansk, the Germans were admitted to hold numerical superiority. Before Volchansk the Germans were acknowledged to have broken through temporarily at some points with small groups of tanks.

Red Star said they had made no real gains, however, being exterminated or driven back to their previous positions.

At Belgorod the Germans were reported thrown back to their original starting place by the fierce resistance of Soviet artillery and infantry supported by tanks and planes.

Fighting in Sevastopol

A Russian communique at noon declared that at the Crimean city of Sevastopol, which the Germans claim to have taken after a bitter siege and assault, "fighting continued in the streets."

WAR EFFORT BEGINS TO HUM IN PROSPECT

Marion County Town Helps Turn Out Tools of War for America.

By W. T. BUCHANAN
Marion Star News Editor

PROSPECT, O., July 3—The bustle of industrial activity that has enveloped the entire country since America's entry into the war has come to Prospect.

All day long the town rings with the sounds of carpenters and mechanics, tools as buildings are put in condition to house the new war industry.

The hustle and bustle started less than five weeks ago when Keenan Hanley, head of the Hanley Engineering Service, returned from Washington with a U. S. navy contract calling for construction of 101 fire boats for the coast guard. While amount of the contract was not revealed it was placed in the navy's official announcement at "in excess of $1,000,000."

Big Problems

To a large concern a million dollar order perhaps would be only a drop in the bucket, but to Hanley's engineering service which for several years has been building fire trucks in two small buildings, the order was something to stagger the imagination.

It was evident that the fire engine shop could not accommodate the expanded activity—in the first place because the quarters were too small and in the second place because the business of turning out fire engines is continuing.

Hanley's first act was to organize a new branch of his business, known as the Centridrive Boat Division of the Hanley Engineering Service. His second task was to find space in factoryless Prospect to turn out the coast guard craft.

Spread Over Town

Now, five weeks after the contract was obtained, the boat division spreads over practically the entire business district. Four former office rooms and a vacant two-story building are housing the main offices, a mold loft, the engineering department, the storage room and the main plant. In addition much of the business is carried on in Hanley's old office in the fire engine plant.

In the main office a corps of stenographers and a personnel man prepare for the rush of work that is to come when production

MARSHALL TELLS BRICKER 37TH DIVISION ARRIVES

Ohio Troops Reach Overseas Destination.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 3—Gov. Bricker today received a telegram from Gen. George Marshall, army chief of staff, announcing safe arrival of Ohio's 37th division at an undisclosed foreign destination.

The telegram said:

"My dear governor, a convoy which included troops of the Ohio National Guard has safely reached an overseas destination and I am passing this information on to you with the thought that you may desire, with means at your disposal, to furnish this information to the families of the soldiers.

"The unit involved is the 37th division, and although I am not at liberty to disclose its location, I am sure it will give a good account of itself in carrying out its assigned mission."

Dog Quarantine Ordered

Health Board Takes Action as Safeguard; Discussion of U. S. Milk Ordinance Revived.

The city health board yesterday voted a quarantine on all dogs to become effective immediately, and discussed the adoption of the United States standard milk ordinance, recommended by the state board of health.

Adoption of the dog quarantine came as the result of a series of cases in which children have been bitten by dogs.

No serious incidents have been reported to the health department, Dr. M. M. Waxebaum, city health commissioner stated in presenting the proposed quarantine, but advised the measure as a preventive one.

The quarantine provides that any dog, licensed or unlicensed, muzzled or unmuzzled, vaccinated or unvaccinated, running loose on the streets of the city may be picked up by the dog warden, police department or their agents and impounded for a period of three days at the expense of the owner. At the end of that time, if licensed and found to be vaccinated it will be returned to the owner if claimed.

Administration Area At War Plant Takes Shape

Headquarters for Army and Builders Opened at Site; Other Work Progessing Rapidly.

By BOB BYRD
Marion Star City Editor

Construction work on the Scioto Ordnance Plant project definitely is in high gear.

In every quarter of the sprawling area, men and machines are making an industrial war plant out of what formerly was farm land.

Grading operations are going on in half a dozen places, buildings are at every possible stage of construction, some nearly finished and others just starting, concrete mixing trucks pass along the roads at regular intervals, carpenters are putting the finishing touches on the interiors of some of the buildings and throughout the area there is the bustle of activity that marks an all-out effort to do a big job quickly and well.

A casual first glance at the activity there leaves the onlooker a little bewildered, but when the various phases of work are explained, it all adds up to a carefully planned, huge-scale enterprise.

In Administration Area

One of the first areas to be developed—the administration area which includes a huge frame, two-story administration building, a row of dormitory buildings, a cafeteria and a telephone building—is now in the final stages of construction. Almost before the carpenters move out, some one is moving in to occupy these buildings.

In the administration building, the U. S. Rubber Co. is centering most of its activities, leaving only a few of its personnel in the downtown district. Uncrating of office equipment is going on about them, grading operations are still under way around the building just outside the windows of employes and workers are not completely finished with the building itself, but office operations flow on just the same.

Offices in New Location

Not far away in one of the buildings that will be used later as a dormitory for workers who will operate the plant, the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. has set up its offices, formerly located at Main and George streets. Here, with more office space available, and with all of the company's office staff close to the scene of operations, work proceeds rapidly and with a minimum of confusion.

In another similar building the army corps of engineers is located, and in still another are the offices of Holabird & Root, architect-engineers for the project. Since the activities of both companies and the army corps of engineers are closely coordinated, the proximity of their offices is another factor that is expected to simplify the construction work and speed it along. Probably within the next two weeks the ordnance department offices, including that of the commanding officer, will be shifted from the downtown area to the administration building, and with this change the principal offices of the entire project will be "at home" on the site.

Incidentally, the downtown business district will not be nearly as aware of the construction project from now on as in the past. Whereas army officers made frequent trips from one office to another in the downtown district during the construction period up to this time, they will be spending most of their time on the plant site from now on.

Huge Restaurant Building

What promises to be by far the biggest restaurant in the vicinity of Marion is nearing completion in the cafeteria building not far from the administration building. It has a huge expanse of floor space for seating hundreds of workers who will get meals there, and such facilities as refrigeration indicate its capacity will approximate the equivalent of half a

Detroit Man Guilty of Treason Charge

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 3—German-born Max Stephan sat in a prison cell today convicted of the highest crime in the land—treason—while Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle pondered the punishment, which could be execution.

Judge Tuttle promised sentence "very shortly" after a jury yesterday finished one hour and 23 minutes of deliberation with the declaration, "we find the defendant guilty as charged," to a courtroom packed and silent.

Stephan's sentence to Oberleutnant Hans Peter Krug, an escaped prisoner from the Bowmanville (Ont.) prison camp, on April 18 and 19 provided grounds for his indictment and conviction.

ROMMEL PULLS TROOPS BACK AT EL ALAMEIN

Armored Force Counter-Attack Slashes Flanks of Nazi Spearhead.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, July 3—The battle of Egypt was rejoined with unrelenting fury today west of El Alamein in the bottleneck of the coastal approach to the Nile valley, with the resurgent British eighth army striving to exploit its first successful counter-stroke since the axis invasion started.

The German and Italian forces under "Rommel the Fox" were forced to retreat last evening after a general assault on El Alamein, less than 70 miles short of their main goal, Alexandria, was crushed.

The battle seemed to have been constricted to the northern sector, in the immediate vicinity of El Alamein, and there were no indications of enemy movements on the edge of the Qattara depression.

Qattara, with its supposedly impassable terrain, lies some 30 miles inland. It and the Mediterranean shore form the sides of the bottleneck through which any eastward invasion of the rich Nile valley must pass.

Yesterday the British, now being considerably reinforced, struck at the flanks of the axis drive on El Alamein, and with nightfall the RAF, buttressed by the South African air force and the United States army air force, struck out anew at the enemy's immediate rear as well as vital ports for supplies and reinforcements.

American planes, manned by American crews, took part in one of the heaviest bombardments of Tobruk, Libyan port.

Throughout yesterday's battle fighting planes and divebombers shuttled over the land forces, providing invaluable backing for the defenders and attacking Rommel's concentrations. It could be assumed that this offensive continued today.

First Axis Reverse

The repulse at El Alamein was the first reverse met by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's German-Italian army since it surged across the Egyptian border following the capture of Tobruk June 21.

British headquarters said the enemy had suffered sharp losses and declared that Imperial defense positions at El Alamein, some 65 miles from Alexandria, were holding firm.

The axis retreat, a communique said, followed a day of heavy fighting during which Rommel launched an all out assault from the west on the British line at El Alamein.

"Our mobile and armored forces counter-attacked the enemy flanks, inflicting losses," the bulletin reported, "and after an armored battle the enemy withdrew, leaving our positions intact."

Advices from the front indicated that British reinforcements being hurled into the struggle had played an important part in the flanking operations, which were part of a carefully-laid defense plan.

One British column, composed of tanks and mobile artillery, was said to have swept widely around Rommel's right flank late yesterday afternoon to strike the axis forces in the rear.

Both sides were reported throwing everything they had into the battle climax of a 350-mile axis drive.

Informed quarters said the new Italian Littorio mechanized division had gone into action in the desert for the first time, increasing Rommel's armored strength to four divisions—two German and two Italian.

More Bombers Thrown In

British bombers and fighters were reported to be smashing at axis land forces in increasing numbers.

Enemy concentrations south of El Alamein were heavily attacked, headquarters reported, and RAF planes ranged far across the desert to blast axis communication lines and the important supply port of Tobruk.

"There was an increase of enemy air activity over the battle area during the afternoon and night of July 2 and 3," the communique also said.

British fighters were credited

The Dream, Then the Deed

A SERMONETTE

By REV. E. H. WIERTH

Pastor, First Evangelical and Reformed Church

[illegible]

FIRST the dream, then the deed. That is the order of life. There never has been a great deed without its blueprint in a dream. Therefore the dream is the great business of youth, yes and all others too. When Young Joseph was greeted by his cynical brothers, Behold the dreamer cometh,' it was a jeering welcome, nevertheless they lived to know that a great career was forecast by those very dreams.

The greatest enemy of man is the cynic. In sarcastic mood he would have us believe there is nothing great or high, nothing truly good, noble or eternal, no pure, disinterested motive, that the dreams of youth are false. Yet the dreams of youth persist in spite of everything.

Without the dream, life is drab, dull. Dreaming makes it a thrilling adventure. First the dream, then the deed. The dream is the blueprint. Sometimes it is years developing. Then, long after perhaps, the adventure becomes real. The imagination's dream is the finest product of youth. It visions the future painting, or invention, or great building, the poem, the lovely song, the creative career of service.

For about three years young Charles Hall, as a student in Oberlin majoring in chemistry, dreamed his way through the problem of reducing aluminum by electrolysis from the intractable materials which held it prisoner. His professor had said in a class lecture, 'Some day some bright young man will invent a cheap aluminum process, and he will make himself rich, and bless the world.' "I'm going to be that lad," whispered young Hall, with a nudge to his next neighbor, and began dreaming. Finally the dream came true. He released the world with a practical process which lowered the price of that shining metal from ninety dollars a pound to nineteen cents. So now we live in the "Aluminum Age," because a college lad in the late 'eighties dreamed his dream of a life adventure.

But our dreams not only help us to peer into the future to discover our future careers. They also help us in our quest for God. Nothing seems real to us until imagination gives it the feel of the real. The day-dreams of thoughtful, earnest people reveal to them life's hidden meanings. Only thus do they find the breadth and the depth and the height of life. Only thus do we find, at the heart of life, the Father-God, life's greatest Reality, the Great Beyond that is within.

Buried for many centuries in Egypt, only recently discovered, is this beautiful lost saying of Jesus: "Let not him that seeketh cease from his quest until he find. Finding he shall wonder. Wondering he shall find the Kingdom. And finding the Kingdom, he shall rejoice."

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL HAS CLOSING PROGRAM

200 Parents Attend Event at Epworth Church.

Approximately 200 parents were present for the closing exercises of the Daily Vacation Bible school of Epworth Methodist church Thursday night. The program presented a typical day of the school with a brief schedule of the various activities participated in during the three weeks it was in session. Bible study, Bible drills, religious hymns, and religious pictures composed the main part of the program.

A special feature was dramatization of the story of the Good Samaritan with the use of marionettes made by the students of the school. As part of the service more than a hundred certificates for regularity of attendance and creditable work in classes were presented students and leaders. The craft work also was on exhibit.

The school, which had an enrollment of 130 and average attendance of approximately 100, was in charge of Miss Margaret Huffman, director of young people's Christian education. She was assisted by more than 25 volunteers.

The school met this morning for a picnic as closing event of the season.

Staff Announced For Girl Scout Day Camp

Registrations Now Being Made; Opening Set Tuesday.

The staff has been selected for this year's day camp operated by the Marion Girl Scout council at Indian Mound, which opens at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

There will be four units and the staff members in charge are Mrs. J. E. Frew and Mrs. Marion Craven, Brownie Scouts; Mrs Forrest Smith, Mrs. Helen Yazel and Mrs. Charles Dengler, younger Intermediate Scouts; Mrs Cecil Gabler, Mrs. James Beal and Mrs. Burnette Bruce, older Intermediate Scouts, and Mrs Charles Way, Senior Scouts. Other staff members are Miss Virginia O'Dowd, who will be in charge of singing crafts and all first aid; Miss Ruth Little, business manager, Miss Edith Treat, executive secretary of the council, who will be the camp director.

The staff members have just completed three days of pre-camp training with Miss Treat in order to better prepare themselves for their camp jobs. One of those days was spent at Indian Mound.

Tomorrow morning a Girl Scout mother, Mrs Cecil Gabler, will be interviewed on the radio by Maddie Cooper of WMRN on her regular morning program, "Women in the News."

Several campership s have been given to pay the fees of girls who might not otherwise be able to attend camp. Campership s have been given by the Federation of Women's Clubs, In His Name Circle, Mrs Walter Dorsey, Mrs. C. V. Hudson, Mrs. Warren Sawyer and Mrs. R. G. Donley.

Many Girl Scouts and non-scouts have registered for day camp which is open to all girls between the ages of 10 and 18 years. Registrations should be made in advance, Miss Treat announces.

RAYMOND McFARLAND IN SERVICE AFTER ENLISTING

Repeats Volunteer Proceedings He Followed in First War.

Raymond "Red" McFarland, son of Fire Chief T. J. McFarland and Mrs. MacFarland of 253 East George street, has been inducted into the United States army for the second time at Fort Hayes in Columbus.

He enlisted Wednesday and Thursday passed his physical examinations.

He enlisted first on Sept. 30, 1918. Because of his youth was sent to the student army training corps at St. Xavier's college in Cincinnati, where he was in training when the Armistice was signed. When he went to Columbus Wednesday he carried with him his honorable discharge papers from the World War I army.

Mr. McFarland, one of Marion's better known bowling enthusiasts and baseball fans, was graduated from St. Mary High school in June of 1917. While in school he worked after school and Saturdays at the Smart & Waddell shoe store on South Main street, and he worked there continuously as a salesman after his discharge from the army.

In a telephone call to his parents he said he did not think he would be given a furlough to come home, nor did he know to which branch of the army he would be assigned.

Gen. Wallace Takes Fort Hayes Command

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 3 — A fighting man with a twinkle in his eye, Maj Gen. Fred C. Wallace, took command of the Fifth corps area today, and immediately offered a prediction on the length of the war.

In answer to a press conference question as to when the end of the world conflict might be expected, the general replied in a drawl reminiscent of his native Tennessee:

"The war will end when we win it."

CHURCH TO ADD SERVICE FLAG STARS

Central Christian Church To Honor Men in War.

They are: Helen Thew, Eva Hinze, Elaine Alexander, Arlene Hill, Mary Gore, Betty Cramer, Beverly West, Nellie Rowland, Barbara Hedges, Carol Whitrett, Delores Dennis, Bob McGrew, Kenneth McKee, Richard Barnhart and Donald Sowlds.

Amos Place Dies at Coolville, O.

Amos Place, father of Homer Place of 364 Olney avenue, died yesterday morning at his home in Coolville, O.

For many years Mr. Place, who was about 70, lived with his son and daughter-in-law in Marion. In ill health for many years, he was an invalid for the last two years. He went to Coolville about five years ago.

Mr. and Mrs Place visited with him on Wednesday. They returned to Coolville last night and will remain until after the funeral Monday at 2 p. m. in the C. E. White funeral home at Coolville.

Two Auto Stickers Reported Stolen

Thefts of two of the new $5 federal auto use tax stamps were reported to police yesterday. James H. Ward of Delaware told police a stamp was removed from his car sometime yesterday afternoon while parked in the Marion Steam Shovel Co. parking lot on West Center street. Sidney Clark of 301 South Grand avenue said a rear vision mirror and federal stamp were taken from his car shortly after he had purchased the stamp at the city postoffice.

Funeral Plans For E. C. Mochel Completed

Friends of Edmond C. Mochel of 127 Lincoln avenue, who died suddenly yesterday morning [illegible] at work at the Huber Mfg. Co. may call at the home [illegible] at Emanuel Lutheran church at 11 a. m. Saturday. The funeral will be conducted at 3 p. m. in the church by Rev. M. E. Hollensen. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

A check book with the owner's name printed at the upper left hand corner was found yesterday on the sidewalk in front of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. on West Center street. The owner may call at The Star office and identify it.

Public Sentiment Rising in Support of National Sales Tax, Survey Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 3—During the past eight weeks the trend of public sentiment on the widely-debated question of a national sales tax has shown a substantial increase in favor of the tax.

The public's attitude, as measured by an Institute poll of the 48 states, indicates that if a national referendum were held today among the nation's 60 million voters on a two per cent levy, such a tax would be favored by approximately 32,000,000, opposed by 23,200,000, with the remaining 4,800,000 undecided or without opinions and therefore not likely to vote at all.

The favorable vote is substantially higher than it was in a similiar Institute poll conducted in May. Moreover, there is increasing public sentiment for a three per cent sales levy; in fact, a majority of those with opinions vote for it for the first time.

With a sales tax plan slated for reconsideration by congress, the Institute put the issue to the nation's voters as follows:

"In order to help pay the cost of the war, should the federal government put a national sales tax of two per cent on everything that people buy?"

The results for today and for last May, based on the total number of persons with opinions on the issue, follow:

TWO PER CENT TAX

	Favor	Opposed
May	54%	46%
Today	58	42

The same question was used for a three per cent tax, with the following results:

THREE PER CENT TAX

	Favor	Opposed
May	46%	54%
Today	52	48

In today's study the proportion of voters without opinion was 8 per cent on both questions.

An analysis of sectional opinion shows that sentiment for a two per cent federal levy is highest in the south and west central sections and lowest in the northeast.

TWO PER CENT TAX

	Favor	Opposed
N. England and Mid. Atlantic	54%	46%
East Central	56	44
West Central	62	38
South	65	35
Far West	56	44

At the present time 22 states, or nearly half of the 48 in the Union, have a state-wide sales tax. Poll results for the 22 states combined indicate that sentiment in those states is substantially more in favor of a national sales levy than the average for the country. The vote in the 22 states is 60 per cent in favor of a two per cent national tax, 40 per cent opposed.

The 22 states are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming.

It is estimated that a national two per cent tax on all consumer purchases would yield perhaps a billion or a billion and a half dollars of revenue a year. A three per cent tax would yield something over two billion.

Church at Crestline To Dedicate Flags

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, July 3—Sunday at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church a flag dedication service has been planned by a committee composed of Rev. C. H. Lange, Miss Felicia Muntis, Lloyd Selfinger, Charles Forshaw, Mable Hoffman and George Beck.

A United States flag, a Christian flag and a service flag have been donated by the Dorcas society. Mrs. Carl Muntis and Mrs. Paul Campbell of the society will welcome the parents of men in service. Ushers will be Dick Shealy, Richard Hauch and Karl Blocker, all having brothers in the service.

While America is being sung the procession of flags will take place. Guards of honor will be James Teack and Frank Varca, rear guards, Ernest Klahn and Floyd Forshaw.

Miss Hoffman, president of the society, will present the flags to the congregation and they will be accepted by George Beck, the congregation president. They will then be dedicated by Rev. Lange and placed in the church.

Marion's 120th Anniversary Week Recalls Great Centennial Event of 20 Years Ago

Visit of President and Mrs. Harding Included in One of Most Notable Celebrations in City's History; Pershing, Dawes and Other Prominent Persons Among Guests.

By HALLIE HOUCK

One hundred and twenty years ago on July 2 the city of Marion was founded by Eber Baker.

Twenty years ago this week the city was engaged in a centennial program highlighted by a visit from President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding, ranking army and civilian officials, and the most elaborate pageant and parade ever staged in the city.

The centennial celebration opened on Sunday, July 2, and continued through Wednesday night, July 5.

President and Mrs. Harding and their party motored to Marion from Washington, D. C. In the party were General John J. Pershing and his aide, Major G. J. Queckemeyer; Brigadier General and Mrs. Charles Dawes, Brigadier General C. E. Sawyer, the President's personal physician, and Mrs. Sawyer; George B. Christian Jr., secretary to the President, Mrs. Christian and their son John; Mrs. John Massey; and Major O. M. Baldinger and Lt. Edward M. Taylor, military aides at the White House.

In the entourage of 12 cars were White House secret service men and newspaper correspondents.

The presidential party was met at Columbus by a Marion delegation composed of Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, Col. George B. Christian, W. T. Jones, J. E. Waddell, D. A. Frank, Earl Coslin, C. B. King, F. A. Huber, O. S. Rapp, Josiah Bindley, J. W. Jacoby, Hoke Donithen, French Crow, J. F. Prendergast, G. L. Craig, William Michel, D. R. Crissinger and J. A. Schroeter.

Arrival in Marion.

They arrived in Marion at 10:30 in the evening of July 3 and the President and Mrs. Harding went to the home of the president's father, Dr. George T. Harding, on East Center street. General Pershing and his aide, General and Mrs. Dawes and General and Mrs. Sawyer went to the Sawyer home, White Oaks Farm. Mr. and Mrs. Christian and son and Mrs. Massey were entertained by Mr. Christian's parents, Col. and Mrs. George B. Christian of East Church street. Major Baldinger was a guest at the J. Wilson Smith home on East Center street and Lieutenant Taylor went to the home of his mother, Mrs. M. B. Taylor of North State street.

Behind in Washington the president had left the heavy cares of his office, including the menacing railroad strike and the problem of the striking coal miners and operators.

Extensive Preparations.

For months the city prepared for its 100th anniversary and the program was launched on Sunday morning with appropriate historical services at all the churches.

In the afternoon at Garfield park the Kadgar Grotto band, directed by Henry Talmage, and the Marion Choral society, directed by Ernst C. Carl, gave a program which included solos by Mrs. W. B. Long, Mrs. L. S. Langley, V. C. Smith and H. J. Brouwer, with Mrs. V. E. Dombaugh and Miss Grace P. Durfee as accompanists. The music included the official centennial song, "Marion, My Marion," composed by Miss Isabelle V. Freeland.

Following a talk by John H. Clark, Marion attorney, on "Growth of Marion Churches," an address was given by Dr. A. Edwin Smith, president of Ohio Northern university and a former pastor of Marion Epworth Methodist church.

Monday morning at 9 the Moose band, conducted by J. J. Mead, gave a concert at the courthouse which was followed by exercises at the reviewing stand in front of First Presbyterian church. John H. Bartram, Marion attorney, was chairman. Mayor George W. Neely gave the welcome, following the invocation by Dr. L. L. Strock, pastor of First Presbyterian church.

City's Keys Presented.

A response to the mayor's welcome was given by Capt. Charles Eber Baker of Chicago, descendant of Eber Baker. He was presented the keys to the city. The national anthem was sung by Mrs. Genevra Johnstone Bishop of Los Angeles, great-granddaughter of Eber Baker, accompanied by Miss Gladys Whlis. Another response was given by Judge William Y. Davis, former Ohio supreme court justice elected from Marion, after which there was a selection by the Esterpean Male quartet composed of F. W. Butterworth, Harwood Taylor, Frank Hinklin and William E. Rice.

In the afternoon at Garfield park the Lecture-Recital club chorus and guest soloists gave a concert and that night there was a grand concert at the park by guest artists formerly residents of Marion, with Mr. Carl as chairman. After the concert all the lodges in the city held open house. At Marion Lodge No. 32, B. P. O. Elks, a centennial class of 14 candidates was initiated in the presence of the national grand exalted ruler, William M. Mountaine of Flint, Mich.

July 4 Salute.

A 100-gun salute to the centennial was fired at 4:30 a. m. Tuesday, at the fairgrounds, awakening the city to the biggest Fourth of July in its history.

All of the Fourth events were staged at the fairgrounds, starting with a band concert at 9 and continuing with a horse show, pony polo, automobile and motorcycle races and at 2 p. m., preceding the arrival of the presidential party, there was another band concert.

Dr. T. H. McAfee, pastor of Trinity Baptist church of which President Harding was a member, and Mrs. McAfee were in the group of officials, relatives and close personal friends who accompanied the Chief Executive and his wife to the fairgrounds.

As the president started to his box in the grandstand a salute of 21 aerial bombs was fired. He was attired in a frock coat, gray trousers and silk hat. General Pershing and General Sawyer were in service uniforms and General Dawes was in civilian attire.

The thousands of seats in the grandstand and bleachers were filled long before the program opened and crowds filled the track and paddock, standing 50 or more deep, according to a news account of the event.

At 2:30 the formal centennial program started, presided over by J. W. Jacoby, Marion attorney, who was general chairman of the centennial committee. Mrs. Bishop sang, "I'm Calling You Home," with horn obligato by Emerson Fields and piano accompaniment by Miss White.

Welcome Demonstration.

A demonstration lasting several minutes greeted President Harding when he rose after a warm welcome and introduction by the chairman. The president in a brief, friendly greeting to the friends of his home city, said he would "welcome the day when I can come back to stay with you permanently."

"Some of you think it is a very fine thing to be President of the United States and it is good to keep on thinking it because when you wake up from your dream you will find it a very different thing," the president told the crowd.

Sixteen selected soloists, directed by Mr. Carl, sang the national anthem. In the group were Mrs. L. S. Langley, Mrs. C. L. Butherford, Mrs. W. B. Long, Mrs. G. W. Jakeway, Mrs. B. L. Wallace, Mrs. A. H. Honefanger, Mrs. L. A. Tonnies, Mrs. W. C. Bryant, Ralph Kinney, Rex Robinson, V. C. Smith, J. V. Wilson, H. J. Brouwer, Harwood Taylor, H. E. Klinefelter and Mr. Carl.

Pershing Speaks.

General Pershing, speaking briefly, declared that "common sense dictates adequate support of a reasonable measure of preparedness against war."

The centennial song was sung by Mrs. Mary Stockwell Durfee of Toledo and the chorus, accompanied by Baker's and Dowler's bands.

General Dawes spoke on the business of government and there were greetings from George B. Christian Jr., great-grandson of the county's first recorder and first clerk, Comptroller of the Treasury D. R. Crissinger, General Sawyer and Mrs. Harding.

The presidential party left the grandstand between lines formed by Howitzer Co., in command of Capt. G. V. Paschall. After the program there were a horse show, pony polo, a band concert and a gigantic fireworks display.

Closing Day

Wednesday, the last day of the celebration, there was a concert at the courthouse at 9:30 a. m. by the Columbus Glee club, under the direction of Karl H. Hoenig, followed by exercises at the reviewing stand presided over by Colonel Christian. Mrs. Durfee sang the national anthem, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. K. Mouser.

Addresses were given by General Warren Keifer of Springfield and ex-Governor James E. Campbell, president of the Ohio Historical society.

The centennial parade Wednesday afternoon, a colorful and lavish presentation of the history of the country and of Marion county, was in charge of a large committee of Marion residents, headed by G. H. Foster.

In Reviewing Stand

The parade was combined with a review of the American Legion men by the President and Mrs. Harding, General Pershing, and Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion.

The parade formed at Grand Avenue and East Church street, moved west on Church to State, north to Center, west to Prospect and south past the reviewing stand.

Among the many elaborate floats and the sponsors were these: "The Mayflower and Pilgrims," Kosciusko lodge, I.O.O.F.; "John Alden and Priscilla, English Soldiers and Indians," Eagles lodge; "Pocahontas and Capt. John Smith," Minnetonka Council, Degree of Pocahontas; "Col. Washington with Aides," Marion Lodge No. 70, F. and A. M.; "Washington at Valley Forge," Sojourners Lodge No. 653, F. and A. Veterans' Reunion

Col. Webb Hayes of Fremont, son of former President Hayes, was among the marchers.

After the parade there was a Legion reunion at fairgrounds, in charge of Grant E. Mouser Jr., commander of the Marion post. President Harding spoke briefly of the Legionnaires' greater responsibility to the nation in peace time because its destiny was in their hands. Brief talks were given by Brigadier General John R. McQuigg, Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, who was the ace of aces in World War I, Commander MacNider, General Pershing and Charles S. Darlington of Xenia, commander of the Ohio department of the American Legion.

Following a barbecue for the Legionnaires the closing event, a pageant, "Marion Centennial Ode," written by Mrs. J. W. Freeman and read by Miss Muriel V. Freeland, portraying the history of Marion, was presented under the auspices of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs. Music was furnished by Bertram Myer's orchestra and the choir of First Presbyterian church.

An informal closing to the four-day program was a mardi gras dance on East Church street between State and High streets, from 10 at night until 1 a. m. Thursday. The grand march was led by George D. Hildebrandt, physical director at the Y. M. C. A.

Wednesday night President and Mrs. Harding were serenaded by the Columbus Glee club. Thursday morning the presidential party left for Washington.

The Star on July 5 published a 40-page centennial edition with a two-part rotogravure section.

During centennial week 10 extra street cars were put in service to take care of the crowds traveling to the park and to the fairgrounds.

Flags, bunting and streamers of every conceivable color decorated the business houses and were strung along the streets. Flags were displayed everywhere and, according to a news account, "the festive air was reflected in the countenances of the crowds everywhere."

Twelve thousand antiques and relics were on display in the store windows, in charge of Dr. F. A. Stengel. During the week the industrial plants kept open house to visitors.

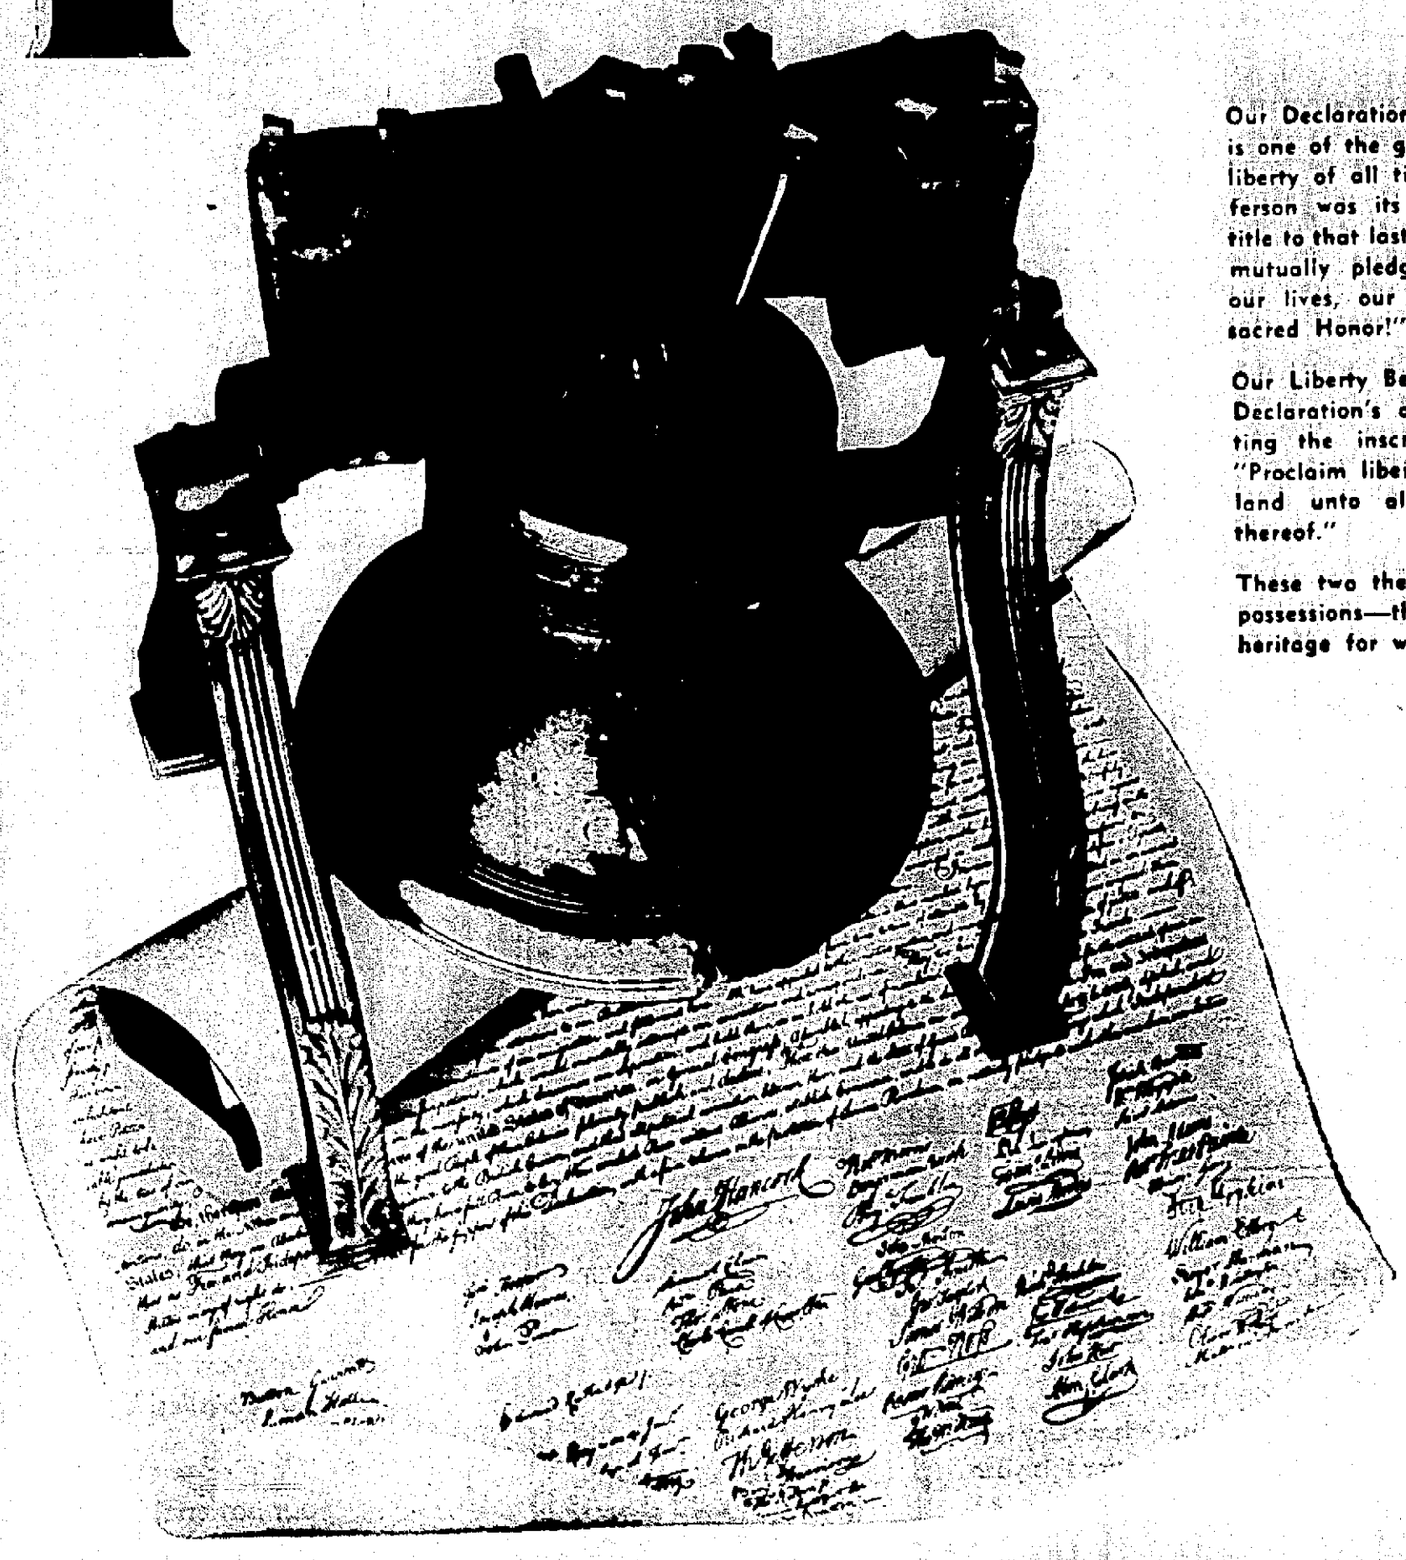
Independence Day
BIRTHDAY OF A GREAT DEMOCRACY



Our Declaration of Independence is one of the great documents of liberty of all time! Thomas Jefferson was its author—from its title to that last, vital phrase, "we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred Honor!"

Our Liberty Bell announced that Declaration's adoption as is fitting the inscription it bears—"Proclaim liberty through all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

These two then, are our dearest possessions—the most precious heritage for which we can fight.

BUY WAR DEFENSE BONDS

ENJOYMENT of the freedoms symbolized by our Declaration of Independence and our Liberty Bell carries with it a deep responsibility! For it is not enough that we be free—we are fighting now that all peoples of the world may be equally free. Whereas in bondage there is degradation, in liberty there is the soaring spirit that leads to achievement . . . and to a better world. That our four freedoms may be all mankind's four freedoms, we are now engaged in a struggle that must have but one outcome—and that, Victory! On this birth-date of our Independence Day, let us each pledge ourselves toward bringing about that Victory whatever it may entail! Let us pledge ourselves—particularly those of us who can fight no other way—to the regular, payday purchase of United States War Savings Bonds, gladly devoting 10% of our income toward our own and our children's future.

"Our Mother"

I cannot say, and I will not say,
That she is dead—she is just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
She has wandered into a fairer land.
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be since she lingers there.
And you, oh you, who wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return—
Think of her faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here;
Mild and gentle as she was brave,
When the sweetest love of her life she gave
To the simple things—Where the violets grew
True as the eyes they were likened to.
The touches of her hands have strayed
As reverently as her lips have prayed
Think of her still as the same, I say;
She is not dead—she is just away.

She leaves to mourn her loss her children. Mrs. Beery Hamilton, Mrs. Ruth Lowry and Mr. John Martin, and ten grandchildren.

FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1942

Freedom Day

AMERICA will celebrate its No. 1 national holiday this year with fireworks displays where independence is fighting for its life—on the battlefronts of World war II.

There has been a national rededication to the principles of freedom—the same principles that inspired a handful of colonists 166 years ago to challenge the claimed right of military power to hold men in bondage.

Their example then fired the imagination of human beings throughout the world. It is firing their imagination now. The example of the United States, whatever may have happened to it in careless hands of statesmen and the interpreters of the acts of statesmen, has been for more than 150 year the last best hope of mankind. The almost countless battles for freedom that have been waged since the Declaration of Independence have been based, almost without exception, on the rights stated in the Declaration and later embodied in the United States Constitution.

In the span of a little more than 150 years the fact has been established that the United States is the champion of freedom throughout the world. Cynics may sneer and sword rattlers may strut, but even they know that sooner or later any attempt to deny the right of men to be free must deal with the American credo of human dignity. There may be—there probably always will be— blunders and lapses, but ultimately the battle will be joined squarely between those who believe in government by the people, of the people and for the people and those who deny these rights.

It has never been easy to face the cruel fact that the battle, by its nature, is destined to be endless, but that is the way things are. Freedom cannot be won nor held cheaply. But it is worth any price—the price was great in 1776 and it has been great ever since, but never too great.

Pre-War Decade

IT HAS been 10 years since the Democratic national convention at Chicago discovered that its best candidate for the presidency of the United States to succeed Herbert Hoover was Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York.

Mr. Roosevelt promptly began the task of outlining for the public an alternative program designed to cut out the crumbling political ground from under President Hoover. It is a question now—and to some it was a question then—whether Mr. Hoover ever had an outside chance to overcome the combination of an aggressive opponent and his own bad luck in being chief executive when the repercussions of World war I finally hit the United States. But the question is academic. Mr. Hoover lost, and the Democratic party in 1933 undertook the organization of the federal government for the first time since 1913.

There can be no doubt now that Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers had no inkling of the shape of coming events. Their policies, as proposed in the campaign, quickly were adjusted to meet circumstances which altered the new administration's direction so radically within a year that in many particulars it seemed to be trying to move in two directions at once. The record of these tempestuous times when action for action's sake seemed to be the only constant policy of the government is beginning only now to appear in proper perspective.

One fact is emerging that went unnoticed, except by a few alert observers, during all the years from 1933 to 1940—that the United States was caught in the maelstrom of what ultimately would go down in history as the pre-war decade. World events were shaping the destiny of this country—a contention of Mr. Hoover's that the Democrats rejected scornfully until their victory in the campaign gave their leader responsibility. Even then it was not plain to them, as it was not plain to most Americans, that ultimately there could be only one climax to what was happening—worldwide war. From 1933 to 1937, virtually everything else was obscured by the great problem of depression and unemployment. In 1937 things seemed to be getting better, but again in 1938 they slipped back and improved materially only with the transition in the United States from pump-priming to war manufacturing.

President Roosevelt, politically more skillful than his predecessor, staved off Mr. Hoover's dilemma of being unable to break the depression by forthright action which, if it lacked in economic understanding, never lacked widespread political appeal. When war finally became inevitable and political unity was made possible at last, his quality as a leader emerged in full proportions; his capacity for action and his large vision were indispensable then. At the end of the decade in which he has been a national symbol of political leadership his stature is greater than at any previous time.

EASILY QUALIFIED

The examiner for the civil service commission talked of the flood of job-hunters the C. S. C. deals with: "Now we're simplifying the examinations. We show an applicant a typewriter, a washing machine, and a vacuum cleaner, and tell her to name them. If she recognizes the typewriter she gets the job."—Nation's Business.

News Behind the News

Extent of U. S. Economic Dislocation Just Beginning To Show Up Fully.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Revolutionary extent of our economic dislocation due to war is only now beginning to be fully apparent in delayed surveys conducted by government and private organizations.

Getting newest are the old depressed railroads, intercity buses and local street car lines in defense boom areas. They never ran at capacity before. Even the Erie railroad paid a dividend the other day for the first time in history.

The rubber and gasoline saving program has taxed street and bus systems in many cities so severely. Exit shoppers have been asked to dagger their hours outside the rush period, and in Washington all downtown stores are remaining open one night a week. Taxicab drivers are similarly enjoying unprecedented prosperity in boom towns.

Defense industries represent the next most profitable phase of war economy, but their condition is full of contrasts. Some small manufacturers, who never did well, are enjoying amazing success making small defense gadgets, like noise filters for tank radios, special gun parts, and such.

Bulk of big business is in gigantic operations, but profits have not generally been increased, due to limitations specified in government contracts, the excess profits and other profits taxes. Many dividends are down.

And manufacturers who have not been able to convert to war business (largely metal shaping, casting, ornamental chromium, copper, brass makers) are going into retirement. It is believed around 70,000 small manufacturers may fold their cards within the next year, which would be roughly one-third of the manufacturing units of the country.

Farmers.

The farmer is doing well. His income will be up $2,000,000,000 this year, an increase of about 20 per cent. He is buying more and more from mail-order houses and in small nearby towns, due to the gas and rubber pinch, in fact some experts here believe the small town may be restored to its pre-automobile dignity in American life before this war is over.

The only organizations which will get rich and stay there, however, are the union labor groups. Size of their large income increase is secret to them, but they are not subject to taxes and hence will not pay their war profits back into the government.

Some carpenters who never made more than $35 a week in their lives in rural areas in the midwest are getting $100 a week. Sons just out of high school are in some sections getting more money than their fathers for unskilled work in booming defense areas.

But both real estate and building industries are feeling a painful pinch. Even in boom areas no one wants to buy, everyone wants to rent.

Defense building is being handled by a comparatively small number of large contractors. The little builder was practically thrown out by a shortage of materials.

Stores.

Small stores, handling one class of goods, are beginning to be forced out (radio, phonographs, hardware, household appliances, wearing apparel). Also being eliminated are the small marginal stores which can not get stocks.

The department stores, however, have ample stocks. In certain instances goods are being sold at less than the wholesale cost of reproduction (New York area report).

The great bulk of vacant stores on Main Street so far, however, are those formerly occupied by auto dealers.

Food and drug stores are doing well in most communities, but in some rural areas a large number of people have left for the army or defense jobs, and these sections are suffering.

Wall Street is shot. The amusements businesses offer contrasts as wide as industry. Those in boom areas, which do not depend on motor trade, are profiting, the others are losing out. Seaside beach resorts are living from hand to mouth, and so are the summer vacation places. Summer theaters are dead.

Doctors are scarce, due to army calls upon the profession. Those who are remaining in civilian service are able to collect their bills. Lawyers, on the other hand, are suffering.

The government has discovered more lawyers have come to Washington in search of jobs than any other class. A few big ones, handling large contracts, have profited enormously, however.

The soft drink industry is staggering as far as the public market is concerned, but some of the largest concerns are secretly using their machinery in war business under government contracts. There were about 1,000,000 salesmen on the road in the country, perhaps not half that many now.

Insurance.

Life insurance business is not good, because the white collar people who buy it generally are hurt deeply by the war economy, while the skilled workers whose income is being increased, generally trust to social security.

In one group there are 5,000,000 persons employed in state, city and local governments in this country (mostly teachers, police, firemen) who are facing a 15 per cent increase in the cost of living without increases in income.

Some businesses are allowing war restrictions to cut overhead. Restaurants give you much less sugar but do not charge you any less.

Delivery services around Washington have virtually been abandoned. Milk dairies now deliver only every other day. Gas dealers cut their overhead with that 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. closing and elimination of Sunday service hereabouts, but the cost of gas has gone up more than 3 cents since the first of the year.

The oil industry was a booming war baby at the start, but has been in depression since the shortage of tankers. Some authorities expect the little independents will be crowded out.

Airplanes lost their booming profits when the government seized half their planes. Cleaning shops can not get fluid for cleaning in the east.

Undertakers, however, are doing about the same business as usual.

If Allies Invade Europe

What's Needed for No. 1 Tough Job of Year.

By ALEXANDER K. GEORGE
Wide World Features Writer

WASHINGTON, July 3.—If the Allies manage to set up and hold a 'second front' on the European continent this year, you can credit them with doing the No. 1 Tough Job of the war.

Military authorities long have rated the invasion of strongly-defended hostile shores the hardest and most hazardous of operations. The now-proven destructive power of land-based aircraft against sea-borne invasion, together with two years of coastal defense preparation by the wily Germans, tabs an invasion of Europe as one of the most ambitious military projects of all time.

For the last five years the U. S. army high command has been making an intensive study of the problems of such an invasion. Unusual precaution has been taken to keep secret the findings of these experts.

Any tricks the strategists of the United Nations may have up their collective sleeve obviously are not being disclosed. There are however, certain known major requirements considered essential to the success of such an invasion.

Shipping First.

A pre-requisite is shipping. The Allies probably could muster enough ships to transport a sizable expeditionary force from the British Isles to the west coast of Europe and to keep it supplied. The problem would be to protect that shipping against disastrous losses, particularly from Nazi air attack. This means that the A in the ABC's of what it would take to establish a second front, say in France or Norway, is continuous control of the air.

Mastery of the air is needed, first, to provide a complete and constant cover for ships carrying soldiers, tanks anti-tank guns and a hundred-and-one supply items and second, to knock out the enemy's big guns, blast his rail and highway junctions and disrupt his troop concentrations. The biggest factor in Germany's smashing of French army resistance and in Japan's victories in Malaya and the Dutch East Indies was supremacy in the air.

The temporary gaining of a beachhead, as the British commandos have demonstrated, is not particularly difficult. Holding it is something else again. Shore defenders have the big advantage of being able to bring up troops, armored vehicles and heavy artillery by highway and railway much more quickly than invaders who must disembark men and cumbersome weapons from ships.

The amount of shipping required would depend on the size of the expedition and where the invasion was made. It would depend also on the size of weapons needed for successful warfare in the invaded area or areas. Obviously fewer ships, making more frequent trips, would be needed to ferry supplies to a force across the English channel than to one in more distant Norway.

Both Have Possibilities.

It would be easier also for planes based in Great Britain to keep a "cover" over the narrow channel and to protect an invasion army in France than to provide similar shields for an expedition to Norway. On the other hand, Norway's rugged shore and "rock ramparts" of islands might afford better shelter for invaders who got a toe-hold there.

The whole invasion operation would require infinite planning and smart generalship. Ships would have to be loaded and operated with an eye to swift, efficient delivery of soldiers, weapons and supplies and to minimum

INDEPENDENCE DAY—1942

Birthplace of Nation

Story of Independence Hall Told in Booklet.

"Walk proudly here, Americans, amid the symbols of your birthright! Greece in its glory, Rome in its grandeur, left no such heritage to the human spirit. For here stands the historic structure where, in 1776, your liberty was first proclaimed; where, in 1787, government of the people, by the people, for the people was made certain and enduring."

Thousands of patriotic citizens who visit Independence Hall are now receiving this stirring admonition and appeal. It is the message of an informative little book presented to visitors as they tour America's greatest shrine.

Briefly the booklet describes the glory and significance of the historic State House where our Declaration of Independence was adopted just 166 years ago.

"This" it begins, "is Independence Hall, in Philadelphia's historic Independence Square. This is the birthplace of American freedom. This is the shrine of American patriotism. This is the home of the Liberty Bell. This is the noblest, most eloquent, most venerated monument to Free Government on earth today."

Historic Events

Then, with simple text and appropriate illustrations, the booklet continues:

"For in historic Independence Hall were adopted the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. In historic Independence Hall were uttered immortal words that still echo in the hearts of men that still inspire and exalt the cause of human liberty.

"Here Richard Henry Lee, in the Virginia Resolutions, first declared that 'these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States.'

"Here Thomas Jefferson, in the Declaration of Independence, proclaimed that 'all men are created equal.'

"Here the Constitutional Convention determined that 'We, the people of the United States,' should govern.

"Here our nation received its name; here the founders adopted our flag; here the Continental Congress commissioned George Washington Commander-in-Chief of the Revolutionary Armies; here it received the captured British standards that signalized our epoch-making victory."

The booklet was prepared by Raymond Pitcairn, Philadelphia lawyer and publicist, who has chosen this method of recalling to Americans the story and significance of freedom's greatest shrine during one of the most critical periods of our history.

Widely Distributed

Since distribution first began, two years ago, approximately 100,000 gift copies have been presented to Independence Hall visitors, as well as to libraries, schools and colleges throughout the country. Among those who received the volume are many distinguished statesmen and soldiers from this and other lands, including the delegation of American and British war heroes who visited Independence Hall while touring the principal cities of America.

Not only to Independence Hall itself does the booklet pay its tribute. It tells also the history of the Liberty Bell and the stirring role it has played in America's long march to freedom.

"From the day the Liberty Bell first swung in the high white tower of Independence Hall," the pamphlet tells, "its rhythmic tolling summoned both legislators and the people to their meetings of protest or decision. Ominously it sounded the alarms of danger; defiantly it clanged the calls to action; joyously it pealed the paean to freedom that fulfilled the prophetic inscription: 'Proclaim Liberty Throughout All The Land Unto All The Inhabitants Thereof.'

"And here it hangs enshrined . . . America's most precious relic, liberty's most honored herald, history's most stirring inspiration to all who love valor and justice and freedom."

Government by the People

Then follows the story of the drafting of our Constitution within those historic red-brick walls, and of the other events which have made Independence Hall a monument to the spirit and achievements of government by the people.

"If you would realize what has been achieved under the free government here established," the booklet concludes, "then remember that:

"Under Our Constitution:

"The United States has achieved a growth of territory, in population, in resources and in influence unrivalled among nations.

"Under our Constitution:

"The persecuted have found refuge . . . the despairing, faith . . . the oppressed, liberty . . . the courageous, opportunity.

"Under our Constitution:

"All men have attained the highest human aspiration — the right to be free, in body and in spirit. All children are assured the richest heritage possible—the right to be educated. All citizens are guaranteed the greatest power known—the right to govern themselves.

"Under our Constitution:

"The people rule. No man is king; no man a subject. Despotism is outlawed. The will of the people is the law of the land.

"And of these things Independence Hall speaks with timeless eloquence to all men and all nations that love free government."

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, July 3, 1932.

An Uncapher avenue resident was slugged over the head and robbed of $45 while placing a car in the garage of his home about 9:30 p. m.

Rev. James O. Dodd of the Central Christian church was the speaker at the weekly union church services held at the Prospect Street M. E. church.

Mrs. Earl Hazen of Oak street, widow of the late Mayor Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Hazen of Garden street and Miss Nancy Turner left for Pulaska, Tenn., called there by the death of the late mayor's mother, Mrs. Ellen Phillips.

It was Monday, July 3, 1922.

President and Mrs. Harding, Marion's honor guests at the centennial celebration, arrived at their home city for their first visit since leaving for the inaugural ceremonies in March, 1921.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Clint Cochran of North Prospect street.

W. W. Mountaine of Flint, Mich., grand exalted ruler of the Elks, spoke at a banquet of Marion lodge of Elks held at Schwinger's hall following initiation of a class of 44 into the lodge at the Elks temple.

The Ohio Rainbow Veterans association met at the courthouse in connection with the organization's annual reunion. Major George T. Geran of Marion was elected president.

Capt. Edwin Masterson of the Marion police force was in a critical condition from injuries suffered as he stepped from an automobile near the residence of Dr. G. T. Harding on East Center street, where he had gone to assist in arranging for the arrival of President Harding and his party. Capt. Masterson fell to the pavement, striking his head, causing a double fracture of the skull.

Army-Navy Relief

Money That Can Be Collected by Campaign Only a Fraction of Enormous Amount Required.

By DAMON RUNYON

NOW ladies and gentlemen, here is a campaign afoot to raise money for the Navy Relief society to take care of the families of the men in that branch of the service. Every cent will be appreciated and welcomed.

The society needs $5,000,000 to carry on its work, a sum which sounds large but is a mere pittance compared to some of the government appropriations for far less important purposes. The regrettable feature is that the government does not include money for the society in these appropriations, thus making it unnecessary to pass the cup among the general public for one of the most laudable of all war efforts.

But the situation being what it is, the society has no other resources unless we can prevail upon Congress to adopt my idea of a federal lottery to provide for both army and navy relief. As I have told my readers time and again, the lottery would produce at least $250,000,000 a year, and on that basis the drawings in one year would cover the relief requirements of the two branches of the service for a considerable period and leave something over.

WITH the government proposing to go into business with the operators of another form of lottery, the pari-mutuels betting on horse racing, by imposing a five per cent tax on wagers, I see no reason why it should not have its own exclusive game and at the same time relieve the public of at least a small part of its burden. Everyone willingly contributes what they can to army and navy relief, but the sum total of money that can be raised by collections in theaters and elsewhere will be wholly inadequate to the needs of the organizations concerned.

It therefore strikes me as foolish that the government does not take advantage of the easy solution that presents itself, especially as it is practically waiving any of the moral phases that might be involved in a gambling enterprise by moving into a business that is essentially gambling. There is no difference between taking a cut out of gambling joint and running the joint yourself.

Of course, I have realized all along that the idea of the lottery would meet with considerable hostility among many members of congress who are afraid of adverse reaction to any support they might give the lottery in church circles in their home districts, though some of these circles may foster the form of lottery known as bingo or encourage drawings for such prizes as War Bonds.

CONGRESSMEN are always very scary about church circles and are particularly so right now, what with elections coming up. I suppose I would be the same way myself were I a member of congress. However, I cannot see how any congressman can square his conscience when he opposes lottery while agreeing to the government becoming a partner in race horse gambling and also collecting revenue in the form of income taxes from operators of gambling houses in various states.

I am told that during the public hearings on the tax bill before the ways and means committee of the house, Congressman Knutson, who has a lottery bill in congress, asked the witnesses their reaction to the lottery idea. While many of the witnesses had no opinion one way or the other, the government witnesses were not at all favorably disposed. Presumably they reflected the attitude of the administration. But that does not mean the case is hopeless. I have looked up the past performance charts on the administration and find that changing its mind dopes as an even money bet at all times.

Boys and Girls To Aid Farmers

By The Associated Press

RIVERHEAD, N. Y.—Boys and girls over 14 years of age are being enrolled at the volunteer office of the Suffolk County war council for service in the farm cadets, an organization of young harvesters formed to aid county farmers this summer and fall.

Because of the draft and the flow of workers to defense industries, farmers are having difficulty in carrying on their work. Those who accept assignments in the cadets will be issued arm bands signifying that they are members of civilian units playing a part in the war effort.

New Pipe Line To Pass Through Hardin Co.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., July 3—The Illinois Pipe Line Co. has obtained permission from Hardin county commissioners today an additional line through the county, parallel to one now in use, which will increase the flow of crude oil between Lima and East Sparta, O., to 70,000 barrels daily. The new 160-mile long line will carry 40,000 barrels of oil daily, while the old line has a capacity of 30,000 barrels. The link is a part of the new system designed to carry oil and gasoline into the eastern states.

EGG STORAGE RATE REPORTED DECLINING

Higher Output May Be Needed To Meet Demand.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 3—Eggs have gone into storage at a lower than normal rate in recent weeks, and trade sources said today hens may have to step up their record output further to supply all the eggs this and other United Nations want.

The net in-storage movement of eggs at four principal markets in the last two weeks of June totaled 144,946 cases. This compared with 207,099 last year and a seven-year (1935-41) average of 241,788.

New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago are the four markets.

Eggs are stored during the first half of the year, when production is high, to build a reserve for later months when domestic consumption alone exceeds production. From August on more eggs are taken out of storage than put in.

While total storage holdings today are higher than at the same time last year, trade sources said a large proportion of these eggs were owned by drying plants having lend-lease contracts to supply powdered eggs. Such eggs are not available to domestic consumers.

The number of hens on farms in May was 14 per cent greater than in the same 1941 month, department of agriculture figures showed. Output of eggs in the first five months was up 16 per cent over last year. The department was confident eggs available for domestic consumption in the remainder of 1942 would be larger than last year.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, July 4

HIGH LEVELS of public festivity and celebration, probably fanfare, enthusiasm and patriotism, are likely to make this national holiday one of unprecedented and unforgetable importance. There is likely to be lavish expenditures, excesses and self-indulgence in an abandoned spirit of gayety. It would be well to be on guard against intrigue, trickery and duplicity.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which public affairs seem to overshadow all other interests. Under an expansive and indulging mood there may be affiliations with groups, communities and political or fraternal bodies which may bring prominence and public acclaim. But in intimate contacts there is need for precaution against fraud, deception, illicit or undercover agreements or understanding. There may be surprising turns to events and in anxious spots elders may assist by wise counsel or aid.

A child born on this day should have much ingenuity, skill, enterprise and spirit of adventure, supported by sound technics and persistent efforts toward a useful and happy life.

For Sunday, July 5

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of more than lively enterprise and initative, with much stirring activity dominant in both the social, domestic and workaday affairs of prime importance. New propositions and projects are to the fore, for pushing eagerly and forcefully, but maintain harmony with superiors and elders and be alert to secret antipathies.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of high pressure, with many new and fresh adventures moving at great tension into conspicuous grooves of achievement. Practical and constructive attack and bold initiative are under unusual stimuli for production. Happy reactions are noted in the social, domestic and affectional life, but in all be amiable and complacent with superiors.

A child born on this day should have much practical creative ability, initiative and determination to put over major programs of military or engineering importance. It may have keen perceptions, ready wit and social graces.

For Monday, July 6

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for an extremely lively and enterprising day, especially in all literary, professional and cultural lines, accompanied by practical creative programs of substantial merit. These will be prosecuted with precision, skill and enthusiasm, although there may be opposition from elders or conservatives. Travel, change and writings may bring success.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively year with much definite accomplishment, even against opposition from elders or conservatives. Bold tactics, determination sustained by clever ideas, and quick moves ensure brilliant coups. Writings, travel, new plans, agencies, communicatiosn should succeed. The young and enthusiastic are particularly encouraged to aim high.

A child born on this day should have much practical versatility and skill in many directions, either intellectually, manually or in business initiative. It will gain by travel, agencies, communications and literary pursuits. It may move under nervous tension but be successful and happy in life.

Four residences being constructed in Havana will be raffled to raise funds for Cuba's needy.

PLUMBERS GET SET FOR EMERGENCIES

Prepare To Protect Vital Services During War.

Many organized groups of master plumbers are offering their services and their fullest cooperation to civilian defense organizations, the Plumbing and Heating Industries bureau reports.

Numerous associations of master plumbers, particularly in cities on the east and west coasts, have offered to make prompt repairs to gas, water or sewer lines which might be broken by bombs. Plumbers have offered to supply not only tools and trucks but their own personal services and shop facilities in making repairs.

Like their brother craftsmen in Great Britain, American plumbers have complete information on the location of the water, gas and sewer lines and thus are in a position to make repairs promptly.

In some cities, groups of master plumbers are assisting local defense organizations in making a complete inventory of the stocks of tools, pipe, valves, and fittings available so that repairs can be made with the greatest efficiency by the use of material readily available in every neighborhood.

An important service which master plumbers and journeymen plumbers are in a position to render is the protection of water supplies against contamination in the event of air raids. Not only must broken mains be replaced but the pipe must be disinfected before pure water can be allowed to circulate through it.

Worker's Output Good, So Is His Put Out

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 3—The Wall Street Journal, under the heading "True Story of the Week," today reported this occurrence at a mid-western war plant:

A big, tough worker told a new employe he was turning out too many units a day and had better slow down. Next day the new man upped his output. "We're at war," he explained. The third day, when the new man's production reached another new high, the other worker violently told him he was "out."

"So are you," replied the bullied one. He showed an FBI badge, attached handcuffs to the tormenter and marched him the entire length of the assembly line.

Red Cross Pushes Nutrition Class Plans

Registrations will be taken until 5 p. m. Monday for the home nutrition class which will be organized Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in the Marion County Red Cross chapter rooms in the Y. M. C. A. building on South State street. Registration will be taken at the chapter office.

Open to all women and young women, the only cost will be 35 cents for the manual.

The 20-hour standard course will be taught Tuesdays and Fridays from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m., by Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, home service director for the Marion-Reserve Power Co.

FILLING CRACKS

Fine hairline cracks in plaster walls can be filled by mixing plaster of paris with calcimine or a weak glue solution. The mixture should be fairly thin and is applied and rubbed into the cracks with a large size stencil brush. The larger cracks should be scraped out, moistened with glue size and filled with plaster of paris mixed with the size.

Spring and Early Summer Best Time To Make Needed Repairs on Home

Home owners should make the most of late spring and early summer to return their houses to good order, authorities on building maintenance advise. Minor defects caused by the rigors of winter are easily repaired now, but they may become serious if they are neglected.

The war production board's construction conservation order, put into effect early in April, specifically exempts maintenance and repair. It also permits remodeling and rehabilitation, as distinguished from maintenance and repair, when the estimated cost is less than $500. This cost includes the total to be spent on materials, labor, fees and financing within a 12-month period.

"With careful planning, the home owner can accomplish a great deal within these limitations," one authority points out. "The order does not 'freeze' building materials in the ordinary sense and it recognizes that Americans must be permitted to protect the billions of dollars they have invested in homes."

While the building of new homes, except in defense areas, is restricted many ways remain open for the owner to add needed living space.

Room can be added in the attic, for example. It can be made into an extra bedroom, a playroom for the children, a sewing room for mother or a den for father. A side porch, or an upstairs porch, can be enclosed to provide an attractive sleeping room. An easily applied material like insulating board does the job quickly and at small cost.

Turning waste space in the basement into a playroom or den is a simple matter with insulating board. A cheerfully finished basement makes an ideal retreat for the family during blackout tests. The windows are small and it is no job at all to make them light-proof.

The interior appearance of many homes is marred because of neglected plaster. Walls and ceilings defaced by broken, uneven or stained plaster can be resurfaced inexpensively with insulating board. It not only renews the interiors, but reduces heating costs and makes the rooms more livable in both summer and winter.

The war production board has moved to make it easier for owners to remodel houses which will provide additional living accommodations in defense areas. For

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"BUT WHAT are you going to do?" I protested. "You must be terribly tired, traveling all day. I had planned to have you sleep here in the bedroom."

"Leaving you to roost on that bed-couch in the living room, I suppose," he glared.

"It's very comfortable," I said defensively, and he laughed down at me.

"I'm glad to hear that," he said, "for that's where I'm going to sleep tonight, as soon as I'm sure there's no chance of your waking. Where do you keep the blankets and sheets and things for that couch?"

"I'll get them," I said, starting to rise, but his grip held me fast.

"Don't excite the caveman in me by getting fresh," he threatened, "or I'm likely to turn one of your lovely cerulean orbs to an ebon hue. I asked you where that bedding was and I expect an answer."

"Yes, my lord," I said with affected meekness. "It's in that closet over there, on the lowest shelf."

Not To Be Disturbed

"That's all I need to know. Now I'm going to march you into the bedroom and put you to bed, and leave orders that nobody shall call you in the morning until you awaken yourself."

Like most women who carry many responsibilities on their shoulders and generally "stand on their own feet," I revel in Dicky's occasional exercise of conjugal authority, backed always by solicitude for my health. I found it very sweet to be bossed around, and submitted meekly to Dicky's putting me into bed as if I were a small child.

I awakened late next morning to find my husband still acting the part of a martinet.

"It's time somebody rode herd on you," he said, "and who has a better right than your lawfully wedded spouse? I've had a session with Dad, and he tells me that for the next few days he's simply marking time, while he watches for developments from several psychological mines he has sown in suspected areas. So he agrees with me that you stay right here today and tonight. Tomorrow morning we are going over to the Underwoods to speed Lillian on her way, then we'll settle down there for a spell while Katharine nurses Harry back to strength.

"You are not to stir from this apartment until we break camp to go over to the Underwoods. Nobody's going to scour you here, and for once you'll have a quiet twenty-four hours. I'm going to be absent most of the time going over some things with Dad, but I'll be within call."

However, Dicky's prophecy proved more optimistic than prophet. True, most of the day were away without incident. It was only Dicky and the room maid Ronald, Mary, the Veritzens, even my father, did not so much as telephone me.

Call from Katharine

But at nine o'clock in the evening, when I was thinking of meeting Katharine next day, my telephone rang and the apologetic voice of the hotel operator came to my ears.

"Mrs. Graham, your husband said no one was to call you, but there is a lady here who says that she must see you, and that you will see her if you know who she is. I didn't know what to do."

"What is her name?" I asked quickly.

"Katharine Bissett," came the surprising answer.

O. S. U. Conceived Idea Gave U. S. Reserve Officers

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 3—When war broke out the United States had a vast reservoir of trained reserve officers to be used in expanding the armed forces because of an idea conceived at Ohio State university nearly three decades ago.

Two of the four men responsible for having the reserve officer training corps program included in the national defense act of 1916 still are living and were cited recently by the university for their "vision and effort" in designing the plan.

They are Col. George L. Converse of Columbus and Ralph D. Mershon of New York.

Converse, commandant of ROTC at Ohio State from 1900 to 1918 was one of the first to insist that the army look to colleges and universities for reserve officer material.

Gen. Edward Orton Jr., then dean of the engineering college, prepared a paper on the subject. It was heard by Gen. Leonard Wood, who circulated it among army officers and college presidents. The idea met with general approval.

Dr. William Oxley Thompson, then president of the university, drew up a reserve officer training bill and had it introduced in congress.

Mershon, an Ohio State alumnus and president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in 1916, at his own expense handled the successful campaign to incorporate the measure in the defense act.

A native of Zanesville, Mershon was a lieutenant colonel of engineers in the first World war, and holds an honorary life membership in the Reserve Officers association.

Mrs. Mayfield Is Elected Head of DeMolay Circle

MRS. RAYMOND MAYFIELD of 636 Windsor street was elected president of the DeMolay Mothers circle at a 1 o'clock pot-luck luncheon meeting yesterday afternoon at Masonic temple.

Mrs. Mayfield succeeds Mrs. John Hall.

Elected to serve with her are Mrs. A. C. Erskine, vice president; Mrs. E. E. Holt, secretary, and Mrs. John Zeisler, treasurer.

The meeting marked the close of circle activities until Sept. 25.

Free Speech....

NOT LOOSE TALK
* Yes, fight for free speech but don't defeat your purpose with loose talk! The woman behind the counter, the waitress who serves you, the man next to you in the tool shop—they all may welcome your "idle gossip." Since you can't discriminate the servants of Uncle Sam from the servants of the enemy—play safe! Don't talk!

John H. Haines, Former Custodian Of Courthouse for 43 Years, Is Stricken

Former Musician with Baker's Band, Opera House Orchestra.

The above photo of Mr Haines was taken while he was still on duty as courthouse custodian

John H. Haines, 81, custodian of the courthouse for 43 years, died yesterday at 3:50 p. m. in his home at 127 Lincoln avenue.

Mr. Haines retired last April and since then had been bedfast most of the time, suffering from uremic poisoning and a heart ailment.

Years ago Mr. Haines played in Bakers band, probably the most widely known of any of the city's bands, and for many years he was violinist in the old Grand Opera house orchestra.

A lifelong resident of Marion county, he was born at Caledonia on July 28, 1880 to George Haines, a native of Pennsylvania, and Lucy Hofstetter Haines, a native of Caledonia. His marriage to Miss Ethel E. Anderson took place in Marion on June 12, 1901.

Mr. Haines was a member of the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church, Sojourners Lodge No 653, F. and A. M., and Kadgar Grotto.

Surviving with the widow is one grandson, Philip Laishley of Crestline son of a daughter, Mrs. Mary Louise Laishley, who died eight years ago.

Friends may call at the Merle H. Hughes funeral home on Mt. Vernon avenue, where the funeral will be conducted Saturday at 1:30 p. m. Rev J. A. Carriker of the Forest Lawn church will officiate. Burial will be made in Marion cemetery.

IN TECHNICAL SCHOOL

Pvts. Samuel Allen McDougall, son of Mrs. Ethel McDougall of Route 4 and John William Coffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Coffey of 554 Davids street, were enrolled this week in the army air force technical school at Keesler Field, Miss. Their training will last 19 weeks and prepare them as airplane mechanics for active 'line duty" with the army air forces, according to word received here from Keesler Field.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

Private Clarence M. Holt, who has been critically ill of malaria fever in the army hospital at Fort Randolph, Canal Zone, has been released from the hospital according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Holt of 1044 Cheney avenue. Private Holt, who was confined to the hospital for two months, has been with the armed forces in the Canal Zone since December.

IN MARINE AIR CORPS

John Loyer of 242 Chase street who has been stationed at Parris Island, S. C. with the U. S. Marines, has received an appointment in the marine air corps and is now stationed at the air base at Quantico, Va. He was one of three men in a class of 52 to receive the appointment. Loyer received honors in rifle, bayonet and hand grenade practice. Before enlisting last April he was a brakeman with the Erie Railroad Co. He is the son of Mrs. Bessie Loyer of this city.

SON IN AUSTRALIA

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Monahan of 609 North State street have received word from their son, Corporal Harold Monahan, that he has arrived safely in Australia. The letter was the first news they had received from him in two months. A graduate of Harding High school, he attended the Walsh Institute in Detroit and prior to going into service was associated with the National Cold Forging Co. in Detroit. He is stationed with a medical unit in the army. Mrs. Monahan, who was Miss Elizabeth K. Harrington of Detroit before their marriage, visited Mr. and Mrs. Monahan recently. She is a teacher in the Detroit public schools. Another son, Robert, who is a private first class with a specialist rating as an amphibian tractor operator, is stationed at the marine base at San Diego, Calif.

RETURN TO NEW ORLEANS

Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Arthur Amick of New Orleans, La., who have been visiting in Marion and Galion, have returned to New Orleans. They were guests of Sergeant Amick's mother, Mrs. Melzia Amick of Galion, his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Underwood of 240 Pennsylvania avenue, and Mrs. Amick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Prettyman of 200½ East Center street.

IN AUSTRALIA

C. Wayne Thew, member of an ordnance company, has arrived in Australia and is enjoying his association with the people "down under," according to a letter received by his mother, Mrs. Ethel Thew of 358 Brightwood drive. He was inducted at Youngstown in January of 1941 and was at Camp Sheloy until April.

QUARANTINE

Marion now is in a defense area and advised that steps be taken to comply with the standard health code.

While dairy products are being sold to commissaries at the Scioto Ordnance Plant now, unofficial reports state that when federal control is assumed only milk complying with state regulations will be used.

Adoption of the code was rejected two years ago when it was felt its enforcement would work a hardship on farmers and producers who would have to go to considerable expense to comply with some of the regulations.

No Decision Yesterday

The measure was tabled yesterday until after it can be discussed with the producers. The code has been in effect in Delaware, Morrow, Richland, Union, Wyandot and a number of other counties in the surrounding area.

Reports of Miss Kathleen Thomas, city nurse, Chief of Police W. E. Marks, Dr. Weinbaum and Dr. Gruber were presented.

All Quarantined in Hocking County

By The Associated Press

LOGAN, O., July 3 — Hocking county's dogs were quarantined enmasse today. Health Commissioner H. G. Southard reported after tests disclosed that several canines in Vinton county, near the Hocking line, were rabid. One of these bit at least a dozen other dogs.

Agriculture Dept. Still Left Without Funds

WASHINGTON, July 3—War food production programs faced a disruption today as congress went into a recess until Monday without acting on the agriculture department's $620,000,000 appropriation bill.

The department, which has instituted plans for record production of food for the military and domestic needs of the United States, has been without funds since Wednesday, when the new fiscal year started.

Senator Russell (D-Ga.), floor manager of the annual departmental supply bill, told colleagues it was his belief that failure of congress to resolve differences on the measure would "simply tie up all the department's activities" until an appropriation measure is passed.

GUIDE FOR DRAFT DEFERMENTS DRAWN

Essential Civilian Activities To Be Listed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 3—War manpower sources said today that rosters of essential civilian activities and critical war occupations would be published about July 15 to establish a definite guide for military deferment.

The United States employment service is preparing the lists in collaboration with the war production board, the war, navy and agriculture departments, and with other government agencies, as a part of the general program to keep men with critical skills at work.

Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt directed copies of the lists sent to all local draft boards, and "to the extent required for the maintenance of essential activities, individuals who are engaged in essential occupations or essential activities" will be deferred from military service.

J. PAUL LAWTHER CALLED TO ARMY

Auto Dealer Receives Reserve Officer Summons.

J. Paul Lawther of 297 Bellefontaine avenue yesterday received a telegram from the adjutant general of the United States, ordering him to active service July 7 with the 258th Ordnance Co. at Camp Perry.

The order was addressed to him in the rank of captain. Mr. Lawther who has held a first lieutenant's rank in the reserve officers, said he had not received official notice of his advance to the rank of captain.

Mr. Lawther was commissioned in the reserve officers corps upon his graduation from Lafayette college at Easton, Pa.

Mr. Lawther, head of Paul Lawther Motors at 436 West Center street, said today the business will remain open, in charge of Pat Lynn of the service department.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawther and their three children came to Marion a year ago from Canonsburg, Pa. Mrs. Lawther and the children will continue to live in Marion.

INCENDIARY BOMB DEMONSTRATION SET

To Be Ignited Tuesday for Training of Wardens.

Demonstrations with actual incendiary bombs will be staged at the Harding stadium Tuesday night at the close of the Co. H. induction ceremony, Earl Ruhlman, chief air raid warden, announced today.

The demonstration, which all air raid wardens will be required to attend, will be open to all interested persons. Those who have been witnessing the Ohio State Guard induction program will be invited to remain.

All air raid wardens of the city will be required to attend, Mr. Rhulman explained, because handling incendiaries is one of the first requirements of their branch of civilian defense service.

W. R. Martin, county civilian defense coordinator, today urged that air raid wardens from all communities in the county be present.

Mr. Ruhlman today received four incendiary bombs such as were used in the recent air raid warden instructors' school at Ohio State university.

The four probably are all that Marion will receive at present, Mr. Ruhlman said, because releasing of the bombs, even to civilian defense units, has been banned by the war production board.

The demonstration Tuesday will feature the sand method of extinguishing bombs, the most satisfactory method, according to Mr. Ruhlman. There may be demonstrations of the less successful methods, using water and "foamite," he said.

Mr. Ruhlman made arrangements yesterday in Columbus for future demonstrations of gases used in war.

undisclosed places said the Germans rushed the city after concentrating several divisions of infantry and many tanks and planes in a single narrow sector.

The exhausted retreating defenders were declared to be offering stubborn resistance to the advancing foe.

The Soviet information bureau said the German attacks in the Balgorod and Volchansk sectors began yesterday, and "stubborn battles commenced."

Germans Say Red Front Broken

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, (FROM GERMAN BROADCASTS), July 3—German and other axis troops have broken through the Russian front on a width of nearly 200 kilometers (about 185 miles), the German high command announced today.

(The communiques did not locate the sectors of the front involved.)

British Seize On Quick Opening To Drive Nazis Back

By DE WITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

With extreme caution one observes that latest reports from Cairo indicate easement of the allied position in the bloody battle for Egypt as the result of a sudden seizing of the initiative by the British in a fierce counter-attack against the axis flanks.

This action is said to have thrown back Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's main assault against the British positions at El Alamein with severe losses, and to have forced him to fall back to the west. The imperial positions were left holding firmly.

This is encouraging in that it shows the British finally have acquired the reinforcements necessary for a counter stroke. It is even more encouraging to see that Allied Commander General Sir Claude Auchinleck was on his toes and ready to seize the opportunity. However, we must remember that the battle isn't yet finished, that Rommel is one of the most resourceful leaders of our time, and that our danger is still terribly grave.

Brilliant Allied Move

This counter-attack, which developed even as the conflict was swirling madly through the burning desert sands, was a brilliant tactical move by the canny Scotsman in whose hands the fate of Egypt rests. It was one of those fast-thinking actions for which Rommel himself has become famous.

What happened apparently was this, to judge from very incomplete accounts thus far received: the battle front lay roughly north and south between El Alamein on the coast and the great Qattara depression some 35 miles down in the desert. The British line was anchored at El Alamein.

Rommel decided to make his main attack on the British concentration in the neighborhood of El Alamein, with the idea of crushing the defenders in a swift frontal thrust and opening a direct route to the great naval base of Alexandria some 65 miles further east.

Waits for Chance

The British suddenly found the pressure eased on their left flank near the Qattara depression. Auchinleck, on the lookout for just such a chance, flung a counter-attack against this enemy flank and started to roll the axis forces back. At the same time he made another counter-stroke against Rommel's northern wing, and this too met success. With both his flanks rolling back there was nothing for Rommel to do but pull his army out of the trap which was developing.

Obviously this is only a phase of the conflict and the battle may have been resumed in full force again even as this is being written. One thing is clear—it is a fight to a finish between Rommel the Nazi and Auchinleck the Scotsman. There will be no halfway business. Either the allies or the axis will take a murderous beating.

JULY 4TH

ball and golf. The Marion team of the Ohio State Semi-Pro league will go to Galion tomorrow for a doubleheader and will entertain the Fremont team in Marion on Sunday. Lord's Jewelers will play a doubleheader softball game with the Stone's Grill team from Mt. Vernon, Knox county champions, at Garfield park Saturday at 1:30. Sunday, Lords Jewelers will play again at the park at the same hour against the Midway team of Toledo, a colored outfit, rated the second best in the state. This also will be a doubleheader.

The Marion Grays, colored baseball team, and the American Malleable team will play at Lincoln park Sunday at 2:30.

Scioto Ordnance Plant activities will continue as usual despite the holiday, in line with a nationwide policy of pushing war projects forward. Most Marion industries planned to suspend most of their operations for the day.

The postoffice will remain open tomorrow for the usual Saturday hours. The stamp window will be open from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. and the money order window from 7 a. m. until 12 noon.

There will be no deliveries on the rural routes but because of the double holiday city carriers will make the customary Saturday morning deliveries.

War Plant Golf Tourney

Week-end holiday activities on the golf courses will get an early start this evening when a Scioto Ordnance Plant tournament is played at the Mar-O-Del course with teams from various war plant units taking part.

Seccalum park has arranged a series of dances and a fireworks display, the latter Saturday night, as its week-end holiday attraction with George Terry and his orchestra playing for the dances.

The Sunset Ramblers Motorcycle club of Galion will sponsor a motorcycle race at the Mt. Gilead fairgrounds Sunday afternoon.

At the Theaters

Theaters will show continuous programs. The Palace will offer "Rudyard Kipling's Jungle Book" featuring Sabu, Joseph Calleia and John Qualen. The Ohio will show "Sergeant York" starring Gary Cooper, the latter will offer a double bill, "Stardust on the Stage" featuring Gene Autry and "S.O.S. Coastguard" while the State will have "Duke of the Navy" and "Straight Shooter."

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Titus of 238 Reed avenue are parents of a daughter born yesterday afternoon at the City hospital.

PROSPECT

sets under full swing within a few weeks.

Thirty-nine employes now are engaged and the number is expected to grow to 150 under full production. Prospect, like other towns where new war plants have been opened, is soon to experience a housing shortage.

The new boat industry, however, has not yet begun to tax the town's housing capacity, because most workers at present are coming from Prospect and other nearby communities within easy driving distance.

Never overbuilt even in quiet prewar days the pinch is expected to be felt when employment at the boat plant increases. Another reason for this is that families employed at the Marion Ordnance Plant have taken a good share of the vacant houses.

Hanley chose the name Centridrive Boat Division for the new branch of his plant because the coast guard craft will be propelled by the principle he has built into smaller fire boats for city fire departments.

No Propellers

The boats are not propelled by propellers but by a stream of water expelled through a jet under high pressure. They can be moved in any direction simply by altering the direction of the water jet.

While operating on the same principle, the coast guard boats are much larger than any previously built by Hanley. They will be 30 feet six inches in length and will be powered by four Chrysler marine motors. The power developed in each boat will be in excess of 400 horsepower. The engines will operate both the propulsion mechanism and the stream-throwing pumps.

The pumps will throw 2,000 gallons of water a minute. Hanley said it would take two average sized truck pumpers to match this output of water.

The first hull, built under a sub-contract, has been delivered to Prospect and work of fitting it with pumps and engines will start shortly.

Before leaving Prospect each boat will be tested in the Scioto river. To facilitate launching a special slip has been constructed along the bank of the river. Authority to construct the slip on village-owned land was granted by the council.

To transport the boats from the factory to the river Hanley has ordered a special truck trailer from a Detroit automobile plant. The trailer will be delivered shortly and also will be used to haul the finished boats to the shipping point.

Probable Use

Where the boats will be used by the coast guard no one in Prospect knows, but it is considered likely that they will go to port cities for the protection of wharves and docks in air raids or from fires set by saboteurs. Since they are only of 16-inch draft they can be used in places the conventional fire tug could not reach.

Another advantage Hanley claims for the craft over the propeller type is that in case the boat is stalled in shallow water the propulsion jet can be used to wash away the obstruction, allowing the boat to ride free. "To the best of my knowledge," he said, "these are the first propellerless boats ever purchased by the U. S. navy."

Representing the navy in the construction of the boats are Ensign F. M. Myers, Warrant Officer Paul Long and Yoeman Ed Maus. Other navy personnel will arrive later.

Works on Trucks, Too

While work is being rushed as rapidly as possible on the boat construction, a dozen workmen are busy in the fire engine branch. Two orders now on the floor are the combination pumper and ladder truck for the Marion fire department to complete an order of two machines placed by the city last year and the last half of an order of 10 air raid precaution trailers bought by the city of Hoboken, N. J.

The Marion truck, Mr. Hanley said, is in the last stages of construction. Mechanical work is practically complete and with a final test the machine will be ready for the paint shop. Many of the removable parts, such as doors, already have been painted. The machine will be ready for delivery within a short time, Hanley said.

The Hoboken trailers are a compact unit mounted on a two-wheel trailer for attachment to an automobile. They consist of a Ford V-8 motor attached to a Hanley-patented pump. The units have a nozzle capacity of 300 gallons a minute. They operate from a fire hydrant. The chief advantage of the units is that they are highly mobile and can be taken to the scene of a bomb fire in short time.

Hoboken was the first city in the U. S. to purchase the units although smaller machines built in England over Hanley patents were used throughout the heavy German bombing raids on London and other British cities.

HIT-SKIP KILLS SCOUT

AKRON, O., July 3—Police today sought the driver of a hit-skip automobile which jumped a curb, killed a Boy Scout, and then sped from the scene. John Belko, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Belko of Akron, was placing patriotic handbills in mailboxes last night when he was struck.

WOMAN CONFESSES IN MELTON SLAYING

Tells of Killing Former Marion Worker at Akron.

A 48-year-old woman has confessed at Akron that she fatally stabbed Fales H. Melton, 45, when caught short as his buddy during a drunk in a secluded spot last Friday night. The Associated Press reported.

Melton has been listed in Akron news dispatches as having resided when a boy at Marion and was listed as temporarily making his home at Caledonia. He was formerly an Akron resident.

B. L. WOY, RETIRED ERIE ENGINEER, DIES

Passes Away After 3-Month Illness; Funeral Monday.

Bert L. Woy, 71, retired Erie railroad freight engineer, died today at 8 a. m. in his home at 330 Girard avenue after a three-month illness.

Mr. Woy retired on Feb. 1, 1939, after nearly 40 years of service with the road. He was hired as a fireman on Oct. 11, 1899 and was promoted to engineer on Dec. 10, 1909.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Maude B. Woy, four children, Mrs. Robert Buck of 708 Davids street, Mr. Gene Williams of Wilson avenue, Mrs. Lynn B. Crosby of Springfield, Ill., and Harvey E. Woy of 905 Oak Grove avenue; six grandchildren, two sisters, Mrs. Bert Smith of Kent and Miss Mayme Woy of Champaign, Ill., and a brother, Theodore Woy of Pinole, Calif.

Mr. Woy was born in Everett, Pa., on Sept. 23, 1870, son of E. C. Woy, a native of Everett, and Jane E. Young Woy who was born at Hopewell, Pa. His marriage to Miss Maude Beckwith took place on Sept. 10, 1900 at Kent, O.

He was a member of Division 16, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Lodge No. 107, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen.

The funeral will be conducted Monday at 10 a. m. in the Schaffner-Denzer Co. funeral home on East Center street by Rev. M. E. Hollenson of Emanuel Lutheran church. Burial will be in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after noon Saturday.

Extra Hours Set for Registering of Marion Voters

The office of the Marion county board of elections will make a special effort next week to help Marion residents become eligible to vote in the August primaries, C. G. Ritzler, deputy clerk, said today.

Deadline for registering is Monday, July 13.

Next week until Thursday night the office in the Marion Federal Savings and Loan Co. building will be open from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. without closing for the noon hour. On Friday and Saturday and on the following Monday, the final day for registering, the office will be open from 9 a. m. until 8 p. m. without closing at noon.

Marion residents who must register to vote in the primaries are new arrivals in the city, and new voters who will become 21 before the November election. Those previously registered who have moved from one precinct to another must call at the office to transfer their registration.

DRAMATIC STORY OF AVG IS ENDED

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, July 3 — The epic story of the Flying Tigers, a thrilling tale of achievement by a handful of brave men against overwhelming odds, ended today with the dissolution of the American Volunteer Group.

Its sequel, with the promise of more and worse headaches for the Japanese, begins tomorrow when the daredevil corps joins wings with the regular United States army air forces in China.

The final chapter in the unique story of the volunteer fliers, one of the most sensational of the whole war, was a document issued today which reviewed their accomplishments.

Only at the end did the official history hint of the Flying Tigers' sacrifices in offering their services in a far-off country against a powerful foe.

"Some of the Tigers," it said simply, "have wives and children in America and miss them quite a bit."

MARION CIO GROUP SUPPORTS MURRAY

Universal Cooler Union Delegates Given Instructions.

Delegates to the national convention which will open at Chicago Aug. 3, were unanimously instructed to support Philip Murray, present chief of the CIO by members of Local No. 750, U. A. W., C. I. O. of the Universal Cooler Corp., last night. John Martin, president, and Bonert Thompson, vice president of the local, will represent the organization as delegates. Each will have two votes in the election. The delegates were instructed to report the unanimous opinion of the local to be that Murray has done more for the cause of labor this year than any other head of an organization and that the men as a group were satisfied with his leadership.

886 IN NAVY'S NEW LIST OF CASUALTIES

Ohio Group Includes 2 Dead; 17 Missing, 2 Wounded.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 3—Casualties of the United States naval forces reported to next-of-kin by the navy department during the period June 7-17, inclusive, were announced today as 886 officers and men.

The 198 dead, 34 wounded and 842 missing which made up this total included personnel of the navy, coast guard and marine corps and raised to approximately 11,000 the number of casualties reported by the navy since the war started.

Most of the casualties resulted from direct action with the enemy, a statement accompanying this sixth navy casualty list of the war said, but some of the names given out were of men lost in accidents or at sea or in the air while on duty directly connected with war operations.

"Some of those under the classification of 'missing' may have been rescued at sea and landed at isolated spots or otherwise made their way to safety at places from which they have had no opportunity to communicate with United States naval authorities," the statement said.

The man nearest to Marion in today's list of Ohio men missing is Alonzo R. Settlemire watertender, second class, of Bellefontaine. Two Ohioans were listed as known dead, 17 missing and two wounded.

EGYPT

officially with shooting down eight axis planes. The British acknowledged loss of seven planes in bomber and fighter operations.

So heavily engaged were the main bodies of the two opposing armies that there was no question of turning back or breaking off the battle to reorganize battered units.

For General Sir Claude Auchinleck, the British commander-in-chief, the issue was clear-cut—he must destroy the enemy completely or be destroyed himself and lose Egypt. There was no middle ground, and he knew well that a single misstep now might spell disaster.

Auchinleck's chances of victory appeared to hinge mainly on his ability to deliver a smashing blow to Rommel's armored strength with his artillery and at the same time cripple his extended lines of communication by air attacks.

U. S. Air Force Active

The RAF and the cooperating U. S. air force, meanwhile, hammered ceaselessly at the enemy ground forces and appeared to be retaining mastery of the skies, although increased German fighter opposition was encountered yesterday.

German bombers struck back with a raid on Alexandria yesterday which the Egyptian government said injured eight persons and caused slight damage.

An official announcement said that during the past seven nights British airmen, with United States planes lending a hand, had subjected German supply bases and lines of communication to the most concentrated bombardment of the entire North African campaign.

Italian headquarters yesterday claimed the capture of El Alamein.

Italy's high command, locating the scene of battle as "southeast of El Alamein," asserted that 2,000 more British troops had been captured and declared axis operations were developing favorably.

"Strong enemy forces were wiped out," the Italian communique said.

The British communique reporting the German-Italian invaders had withdrawn west of El Alamein disrupted the axis claim yesterday that Rommel's forces had broken through the main British position.

El Alamein is the northern anchor of the 35-mile British line protecting the "bottleneck" gateway to Alexandria. The line extends from the Mediterranean coastal escarpment to the desolate Qattara gulf sink.

Reinforcements Arrive

Bolstered by very considerable reinforcements, which Prime Minister Churchill announced yesterday were arriving at the front, Gen. Auchinleck's Imperial armies were said to be throwing everything they had into the struggle to save Egypt and perhaps the entire Middle East.

Dispatches from the front, even hinted that Gen. Rommel, known as "the fox of the desert," may have fallen into as neat a trap as he ever devised for the British.

12 Ohio Congressmen Get "X" Gas Cards

WASHINGTON, July 3 — Twelve Ohioans are among 218 members of the national house of representatives who have obtained "X" ration cards for the unlimited purchase of gasoline, files of the district rationing administration show. They are Secrest, Hunter, Claypool, Thom, Democrats; and Elston, Hess, Jones, Clevenger, Brown, Vorys, Baumhart and McGregor, Republicans.

COUNTY FAIR CANCELLED

CLEVELAND, July 3—The 46th annual Cuyahoga county fair, scheduled to be held in nearby Berea next month, has been cancelled because of the war and transportation restrictions. The only other time the fair was cancelled was in 1918, because of the depression.

2,500 Witness Second Little Grand Circuit Session

Peter Chance Dies on Track After Seventh Race.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

For the second straight night bad luck struck a sour note in Marion's Little Grand Circuit harness racing meet last night at the county fairground track as Peter Chance, a brown gelding by Captain S., expired 50 feet beyond the finish line after finishing ninth in the seventh race.

Dr. J. B. Reed of Pittsburgh owned the horse. Frank Johnson, also of Pittsburgh, was the driver. Veterinarians said death resulted from a heart attack.

Wednesday night's inaugural card was marred when a Fremont-owned horse was destroyed after receiving serious injuries in a runaway accident and a driver was injured in a four-horse spill.

C. J. "Slim" Shilling of Columbus, the injured driver, is in City hospital receiving treatment for a fractured shoulder. Hospital officials said his condition was "improved" today.

A radio was placed in Shilling's room at the hospital last night so that he could hear results of a portion of the race program broadcast over radio station WMRN. The broadcast is made each night from 9 to 10. One of his horses, Wilkin, won the second race.

The Walnut Abbe, a brown gelding by Bert Abbe, became the first three-heat winner in the two-day old meeting, winning over a field of 10 others in a 2:19 pacing event. C. H. Bowen of Columbus is owner of the gelding. Ernie Smith, veteran Washington C. H. horseman, was up in each of the winning heats.

Wilkin Wins

Winning in straight heats, Wilkin, a huge bay horse by McKinney Guy and owned and driven by Earl Laymon of Bellefontaine, won the featured two-year-old pace, a special event for heretofore untested horses.

Last night's banner program was characterized by winning drives in the stretch and unusually stellar driving chores. In no less than five of the seven dashes, the winning horse made his bid coming into the stretch.

A half-dozen great races are scheduled tonight and Saturday night.

Tonight's card includes the 2:16 pace and the 2:14 and 2:26 trots. Saturday's program includes the classified trot and the free-for-alls and three-year-old paces. Twenty-two horses have been nominated for tonight's card. They are:

2:26 class trot ($300)—Iva Dillon, by Ivanhoe (Burgell); Charon Arline, by True Volo (Drumm); Friendship, by Mr. McElwyn (Ford); Proprietor, (driver unnamed); Stylish Manners (Myott); Hollywood Bachus, (Tallman); Camillia Ce-Sar, by Don Ce-Sar (Erskine); and Patrick G., by Hollywood Prince (Bennett).

2:16 class pace ($300)—Cleo Mack, by Peter Nutonia (Drumm); Patsy Mack, by McKinney Guy (Smith); Balbo Siskiyou, by Siskiyou (Rumley); Sally C., by Single C. (Burgett); Theo Volo, by Dillon Volo (Biehl); Jimmy Statley (Carlock); and Mike the First, by Arion Guy (Vallery).

2:14 class trot ($300)—Thelma Hanover, by Calumet Chuck (Tallman); Volarion, by Volomite (Carinall); Calumet Clifton, by Justice Brooke (Lighthill); Ace Siskiyou, by Siskiyou (driver unnamed); Calu Dawn, by Belwin (McKay); and Coney Azoff, by Jayzoff (Blackwell).

THE MARION STAR

All-Service Pitchers Warm Up

This quartet of former major league pitchers warmed up at the Great Lakes, Ill., Naval Training station, as workouts began for the all-service team which will meet the winner of the major league all-star game. The service players will oppose the major leaguers in Cleveland on the night of July 7. Left to right are Fred Hutchinson, formerly of Detroit; John Grodzicki, St. Louis Cardinals; Bob Feller, Cleveland; and Mickey Harris, Boston Red Sox.

BILL EVERLY HURLS TWO-HIT, 4-0 WIN

Universal Cooler, SWOC Share Industrial Loop Lead.

Universal Cooler and S. W. O. C. 1940 won industrial league softball games last night to remain in a tie for the loop lead.

Universal Cooler downed Hunkin-Conkey No. 1, 4-0, on the two-hit hurling of Bill Everly, while S. W. O. C. won a 2-1 edge over Commercial Steel. Woody Walters set the losers down with four hits.

In other games Huber won an 18-0 victory over Osgood and General Excavator thumped Holabird & Root, 15-0.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, July 3—Reminder: Tomorrow is Independence Day, traditionally given over to recreation and patriotic observance. It also is USO day, when spectators at sports events in many places will be asked to contribute, and the day when most tennis and golf clubs will hold Red Cross tournaments. Get the idea?... The famous battery of George Earnshaw and Mickey Cochrane will be reunited when Mickey's Great Lakes navy players get a workout against Fort Custer, reinforced by army members of the all-star service squad, at Detroit tomorrow.

Short Sport Story—Last spring 20-year-old Bob Chesnes failed to make the grade as a pitcher with the San Francisco Seals and was farmed out to San Jose of the California league. He didn't get much fielding support there and one day, right in the middle of a game, he stalked off the mound... "I can play shortstop better than that," he growled, taking his place in the infield... He did. Now he's regarded as a very promising short fielder.

Today's Guest Star—Jimmy Murphy, Canton, Ill., Daily Ledger: "What's wrong with Cardinals? That question is being asked wherever baseball is discussed. The answer is found in the National league statistics—runs batted in, Mize, New York, first; hits, Mize first; home runs, Mize first; runs scored, Mize second ...The Cards certainly cannot be called Mize-rly this season."

Columbus Moves Into Third Spot in Lively Race

By The Associated Press

The chase in the merry American association still was as tight as a new shoe today with Columbus having the closest fit after jamming into third place.

Kansas City pasted Indianapolis, 10 to 2, last night, for a good grip on the league lead, but the next four places in the standings remained tightly laced.

The Red Birds blanked the Millers, 2-0, behind pitcher Ted Wilks' four-hitter.

Tony Fiarito delivered Louisville's 6-2 win over Milwaukee. He poled a homer with bases filled in the eighth.

Toledo, after hanging up five runs in the first inning, barely edged through to an 8-6 victory over St. Paul.

FARMER JONES IN ARMORY MAT WIN

Joe Ferona and Black Panther Also Win.

The Black Panther, Joe Ferona and Farmer Jones were victors in Armory fight programs last night.

The Panther, Toledo restaurant king, won a decision over New York's Rufus Jones in a 10-round special attraction boxing match.

Ferona defeated Bobby Castle in 13 minutes of the 30-minute preliminary with a step over toe hold.

Farmer Jones experienced little difficulty in disposing of rough Billy Venerable of Dallas, Texas, in the main-go mat feature. The Farmer won in consecutive falls, scoring first with a body press and gaining the match with a kick and jack-knife.

All-Star Managers Name Probable Starting Line-Ups

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 3—The public was given a peep today at the probable starting lineups for the major league All-Star show that will be staged in the gloaming at the Polo Grounds Monday.

Neither Joe McCarthy nor Leo Durocher, the rival managers, was able to name his starting pitcher because of the two doubleheaders that face every club in the big leagues this week-end. But assuming that righthanded hurlers are on the mound at the beginning, the batting orders tentatively will be:

AMERICAN LEAGUE

D. DiMaggio, Boston, rf
Boudreau, Cleveland, ss
Williams, Boston, lf
J. DiMaggio, New York, cf
McQuinn, St. Louis, 1b
Gordon, New York, 2b
Keltner, Cleveland 3b
Dickey, New York, c

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brown, St. Louis, 2b
Vaughan, Brooklyn, 3b
Reiser, Brooklyn, cf
Mize, New York, 1b
Ott, New York, rf
Medwick, Brooklyn, lf
W. Cooper, St. Louis, c
Miller, Boston, ss

Mort Cooper, star of the St. Louis Cardinals, is almost certain to be the opening pitcher for the National league and Durocher specified that his younger brother, Walker Cooper, would do his receiving.

The identity of the American's starting pitcher is a mystery and the assignment might fall to almost anyone of the nine hurlers on the squad, with one of the Yankees, Red Ruffing, Ernie Bonham or Spud Chandler, favored.

OHIO'S TWO MAJOR AMATEUR GOLFING TOURNEYS TO STAND

Plans Pushed for Both in Spite of Rationing and War Problems.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 3—Despite tire rationing and other problems posed by the war, Ohio's two major amateur golf championships will be staged as scheduled this month.

The Ohio Amateur, sponsored by the Ohio Golf association, is set for July 13-18 at Cincinnati's Makeiwah club, which the women's state title event is booked for July 13-17 at Columbus Country club.

The women's tournament gets under way July 13 with an 18-hole qualifier, in which 16 will fight their way into the championship flight, with the nonqualifiers getting into lesser groups of 16. Match play continues through Friday, when the 36-hole finals are scheduled.

Defending Champ

Miss Neoma Copic of Toledo, winner of the state puolinks crown in 1939, but now a private club member, is defending women's champion. She faces tough opposition, however, from Mrs. Linton Fallis of Toledo, champion in 1939 and 1940, and Mrs. Burt Weil of Cincinnati, who dominated the feminine scene from 1934 through 1937.

The men have a pro-amateur in the morning, and an amateur-amateur in the afternoon, to launch their Cincinnati classic July 13. On Tuesday an 18-hole medal play qualifier is booked, with 63 gaining title flight spots along with defending champion Frankie Stranahan of Toledo, who gets his place without playing the 18-hole test.

Two rounds of match play are scheduled Wednesday and Thursday, and the four survivors stage the 36-hole semi-finals Friday, with the 36-hole finals Saturday.

Servis Uncertain

Bob Servis of Dayton, winner of the amateur in 1933, 1936, 1939 and 1940, has not announced whether he would enter this year's play, but Stranahan, one of the youngest stars ever to take the title, is certain to run into rough opposition from Neil Ransick of Cincinnati, 1935 king, and Maurice J. McCarthy, also of Cincinnati, who won in 1934, 1937 and 1938.

Public links players are eligible for each tournament, but in the men's event the "pay as you play" representation is limited to the state and district champions and runners-up. No entry fee will be charged the public links guests in the men's tourney, and they will be eligible only for the championship flight.

CARDS DEFEAT DAYTON

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., July 3—Springfield's manager "Smoky" Alton homered with a mate aboard in the seventh inning to give the Cardinals a 7 to 6 win over Dayton in the first game of a Mid-Atlantic league doubleheader last night, but Springfield dropped the nightcap 8 to 2. Last place Zanesville knocked off league-leading Charleston 6 to 2, while Canton nosed out Erie 3 to 2.

Chubby Dean Credited with Indian Victory Over Chicago, 7-5.

The Fourth of July fireworks in the major leagues are slated to be set off at twilight tonight in Fenway Park at Boston where the rocketing Red Sox and the sputtering New York Yankees will collide in the most important series of the midsummer.

A mere three games separate the clubs in the standings and the game at 6 p. m. tonight and tomorrow's holiday doubleheader will give the Red Sox a chance to move into a tie for the American league lead.

Till yesterday Boston had at least a slender chance of taking over exclusive possession of first place on Independence Day, traditionally the date for tagging pennant winners, but weather kept both clubs idle.

Williams Fined

It took none of the lustre away from the Red Sox-Yankee series however, and chiefly furnished a lull during which Manager Joe Cronin fined slugger Ted Williams $250 and lectured him in front of the entire club for loafing.

The sox have won 20 of their 24 games and with Williams presumably chastened and ready to make his bat do his talking, they may add additional bruises to the already battered world champs, who have lost 11 of their last 17 games.

If New York is able to win the series, though, the champs may be hard to head. On this date a year ago they had precisely the same lead they now hold—three games—and won in a romp.

The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers both took advantage of the idleness of New York and Boston yesterday to tighten the boundaries of the first division.

Some hurlers are known as "Sunday pitchers" but Cleveland's comeback man of the mound, Mel Harder, is building a reputation as a "Friday night hurler."

The Indians returned today from Chicago, where they swept the four game series with the White Sox, and ordered the veteran Harder to don his spectacles and serve the spheres to the Detroit Tigers.

It will be the third consecutive Friday evening on the hill for Master Mel, who lost to Boston 3-2 last week but beat New York 5-4 the previous Friday. His seasonal record of five triumphs and six defeats includes another nocturnal triumph, a 2-1 decision over Chicago.

Last night's 7-5 scalping of the pale hose was credited to Chubby Dean, who permitted one run and three hits in eight innings and then had to be rescued by Joe Heving from a Windy City uprising in the final frame.

Cleveland Sets Pace

Cleveland led all the way, tallying one in the second inning, and another in the fifth, and although Chicago also scored in the fifth, the Redskins pushed over three big runs to make it look certain in the seventh. The three markers came on two errors, a walk, a balk, singles by Dean and Jeff Heath, and a 400-foot double by Les Fleming.

Cleveland punched over two more tallies in the ninth on Ray Mack's triple and singles by Jim Hegan and Dean, Oris Hockett's long fly.

'Sgt. York' On Bill at Ohio

Film Story of First World War Hero Now Showing; Berle Picture Coming.

The Ohio theater's current attraction is a return engagement of Warner Bros. "Sergeant York," the picturization of the life of one of America's heroes, who has recently been made a major in the United States army.

It was in the Tennessee backhills where Alvin York was born and bred to a life of hard toil and small rewards. When news of a European war was first brought to York and others like him in his isolated community, it all made little sense to the clan. York didn't believe in killing and tried to get exemption from the army as a conscientious objector.

Nonetheless when Alvin York was taken into training, and when the whole import of America and America's obligations dawned on him, that spirit was awakened that was to eventually lead to the most spectacular single soldier's career of the war.

War sequences show training, flashes in camp and battle action in the Argonne Forest in France. Pictured in detail is the action where York performed his amazing feat of single-handedly killing 25 German machine gunners and with the aid of a handful of comrades, capturing 132 prisoners. For this act he was decorated with the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Service Cross, the French Croix de Guerre with palm and other allied awards.

Joan Leslie is cast as a pretty, clever and slightly whimsical mountain girl with whom York falls in love and later marries. Walter Brennan plays the part of Pastor Pile, the one person who understands York.

"Sergeant York" will play through Thursday. On Friday, July 10, "Whispering Ghosts" will open for four days. In this film Milton Berle makes his first starring screen appearance. Playing the part of a radio crime-detective who solves mysteries over the air, Milton sets a laugh-packed pace when he finds himself aboard a mystery ship. The supporting cast includes Brenda Joyce, John Shelton and Willie Best.

'Hellzapoppin' On Double Feature Program at State

Amid the crashes, bangs, explosions and comedy which Olsen and Johnson have incorporated into their film version of "Hellzapoppin'," coming to the State theater Sunday and Monday, swing music holds its own.

Don Raye and Gene de Paul wrote eight tunes for the Mayfair production. Martha Raye sings "Waiting for The Robert E. Lee," and a novelty swing number, "Watch the Birdie." Other numbers include the title song, "Hellzapoppin'," "Heaven for Two" and "You Were There."

Showing also on Sunday and Monday will be Richard Arlen and Andy Devine in "Legion of Lost Flyers," "North From the Lone Star" featuring Bill Elliott and Dorothy Fay, and "Turnabout" starring Carole Landis and John Hubbard, will be on the screen Tuesday and Wednesday.

Thursday through Saturday there will be three features shown, Richard Cromwell and Mary Ruth in "Riot Squad," Tom Keene and Betty Miles in "Riding the Sunset Trail," and Charlie Chaplin and Marie Dressler in a new musically synchronized version of "Tillie's Punctured Romance," the first feature comedy ever produced. This picture is credited by screen historians with having done more than any other picture to launch the worldwide popularity of Charlie Chaplin.

NEXT WEEK IN THE THEATERS

Tuesday-Wednesday—"North From the Lone Star" and "Turnabout."
Thursday-Saturday—"Riot Squad," "Riding the Sunset Trail," and "Tillie's Punctured Romance."

Glen Gray Orchestra On Week's Palace Program

Billed for Thursday; "Twin Beds" and "Reap the Wind" Among Picture Features.

Glen Gray and his Casa Loma orchestra, on tour, will be at the Palace theater Thursday. The orchestra is coming from Chicago.

On the screen that day will be William Holden and Frances Dee in "Meet the Stewarts," a fast-moving domestic comedy.

Other features of the week include "Twin Beds," "This Gun for Hire," and "Reap the Wild Wind."

"Twin Beds," which will be shown from Sunday through Tuesday, is the film version of the stage farce of the same name. The story concerns a bride whose penchant for being an individual leads to a score of high, wide and handsome complications. This role is played by Joan Bennett, whose enthusiasm for good causes finally brings her harassed husband, George Brent, to the end of his rope and he skips town. When he returns, on a mission of reconciliation, he is greeted by a surprise that is more than he was bargaining for.

In the supporting cast are Mischa Auer, Glenda Farrell, Ernest Truex, and Una Merkel.

On Wednesday the feature will be "This Gun for Hire," in which Veronica Lake, Robert Preston and Alan Ladd are co-starred.

Starring Friday for a five-day run will be "Reap the Wild Wind." Set in 1840 when America's sea borne trade was threatened by wreckers who operated out of Key West and took advantage of the wild hurricanes of the Caribbean this picture tells the story of a boy and a girl, Milland and Paulette, who helped to end the piracy. Behind the love story is the broad sweep of history, forerunner of a later day when steel - hulled undersea pirates would wreck ships off the very same shores.

Two famous New York stage actors appear in this sea epic produced by Cecil B. DeMille. The two are Raymond Massey, who played the title role in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" on the stage and then repeated it on the screen, and Walter Hampden, noted Shakespearean actor.

SGT. YORK RECEIVES DECORATION

Mystery On Marion Bill

Film Version of Poe Story To Be Shown on Twin Feature Program.

From a midnight show on Saturday through Monday at the Marion theater "The Mystery of Marie Roget," and "Babes on Broadway," will be featured. "The Mystery of Marie Roget," is based on the immortal tale by Edgar Allan Poe, and features Maria Montez and Patricia Knowles with a supporting cast that includes Maria Ouspenskaya, John Litel, Edward Norris and Lloyd Corrigan.

"Babes on Broadway," co-starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, dramatizes the adventures and heart-throbs of the army of young actors. Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland are re-united for the seventh time in this musical.

Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore, as Drs. Kildare and Gillespie, grapple with new medical problems in "Dr. Kildare's Victory," latest of the Dr. Kildare series, which will be shown on Tuesday and Wednesday. A young interne gets in trouble saving a life in a zone supposed to be that of another hospital, and the two doctors, with the aid of a debutante accident victim whose life had been saved, played by Ann Ayars, finally save the day for the doctor and his nurse fiancee, Jean Rogers.

Also showing on those days will be Anton Walbrook and Sally Gray in "Suicide Squadron."

An unusual will which bequeaths his extensive ranch property to 100 former convicts is the bizarre way in which a deceased outlaw gains revenge on a frontier sheriff in Tim Holt's latest outdoor picture, "Land of the Open Range," showing Thursday through Saturday. To Holt, cast as deputy to the temporarily incapacitated sheriff, falls the task of restoring order.

On the screen with the western will be "Tough As They Come," dramatizing the operations of outlaws and the racket-busting exploits involved in exposing them, and featuring the Dead End Kids and the Little Tough Guys.

WAR MARKET RALLY FADES

Rails and Motors, However, Continue To Attract Attention of Traders.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 3—Buyers kept faith with the rails, motors and other scattered favorites in today's stock market but the war-baby push of yesterday died down considerably.

The list extended Thursday's rally by fractions at the opening. Demand then slackened, along with dealings. While small plus marks were well distributed, declines were plentiful.

Slightly more cheerful news from the Egyptian battle front was an aid to the lagging peacetime stocks of the previous session. It was evident, though, that issues which might benefit from a lengthy conflict still were favored to a certain extent.

Better acting shares included General Motors, Chrysler, American Can, Anaconda, Texas Co. and Sears Roebuck. Occasionally backward were Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, Douglas Aircraft and Westinghouse.

BRICKER ADDRESS IN JULY 4TH BROADCAST

Part of Program Launching Civilian Defense Week.

A half-hour program of recordings dramatizing the state's military history and featuring an address by Governor John W. Bricker, will be presented over Station WMRN Saturday night from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. Arrangements for the program, which will mark the launching of Civilian Defense Week sponsored by the Ohio State Council of Defense, were made by Mayor Russell C. Snare at the request of the state council.

The broadcast, to be aired by 20 Ohio radio stations will be a musical review of Ohio's history. Music for the program was directed by Professor Louis Diercks of Ohio State university, with selected voices from the King avenue Methodist church in Columbus.

SERVICE WILL HONOR NEW CORPS OFFICER

Salvation Army Plans Welcome for Lt. Guckert.

A welcome service honoring Lieutenant Betty Guckert, who arrived recently to take up her duties as assistant to Major and Mrs. Joseph Heard, heads of the Salvation Army corps, will be held Sunday at the citadel on West Center street.

Lieutenant Guckert, a graduate of the Salvation Army Training college in New York City, came to Marion from Frankfort, Ky., where for the last year she has been the assistant corps officer. Her home is a Marietta. Her duties here will be to assist Major and Mrs. Heard in the local work of the corps and her major activities will center in the young people's work.

MARION YOUTH HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Thomas Roberts in Serious Condition After Crash.

Thomas Roberts, 17, of 365 North Prospect street was seriously injured at about noon yesterday in a two-car auto collision at the intersection of West Church street and Park boulevard. He suffered a punctured lung, chest, cerebral concussion and possible internal injuries. The attending physician described Roberts' condition as "serious."

Roberts was driver of an auto which police said collided with an auto owned by the United Electric Supply Co. of 138 East Center street and driven by James W. Milton, 58, of Kenton. Following an investigation by city police, he was charged for failure to observe a stop sign and was fined $3 and costs.

Don Gwinner, 18, of 647 Miami street, who was riding with Roberts at the time of the accident, suffered minor injuries. Both were taken to Marion City hospital in the Boyd & Uncapher ambulance.

EARLY WHEAT GAINS LOST BEFORE CLOSE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 3—Flour business and demand for wheat from milling interests gave the futures market an upward thrust today but early gains of a cent a bushel were wiped out in a subsequent retreat.

Late selling, which carried prices below yesterday's close, was blamed on hedging sales in connection with the new crop movement, prospects of large receipts in the southwest the first of next week, conflicting claims from the battlefront in Egypt and estimates of private crop experts suggesting total wheat harvest may exceed 900,000,000 bushels again this year.

President Roosevelt's statement urging congressional approval of government wheat feed sales at prices below parity also attracted attention.

EUROPE

loss if they were badly damaged or sunk.

A force of 500,000 to 600,000 well-trained soldiers, with the best equipment and very able leadership, probably could give the Nazis some real trouble in their "backyard," forcing them to rush up reserves from Germany. This might take considerable pressure off the Russians. But for an invasion army of that size to be really effective it needs, above all CONTINUOUS CONTROL OF THE AIR.

Many Motorists Still To Buy U. S. Tax Stamps

WASHINGTON, July 3 — Indications that large numbers of automobile owners were staying away from the $5 federal use tax stamp window sent top treasury officials into a huddle today over various proposed methods of enforcing the levy.

The first auto stickers, required since Feb. 1, expired Tuesday night, but scattered reports indicate "exceptionally poor" sales of the new stamps covering the fiscal year starting July 1. On a proportionate basis, the first stickers cost $2.09.

Mrs. Anna Axthelm of Cardington Dies

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON, July 3 — Mrs. Anna Axthelm died at her home in Cardington at 9 p. m. yesterday following an illness of four months.

She was born Oct. 29, 1870, in Richland Township to Frederick Elizabeth Shorr Heimlich. On Oct. 30, 1897, she was married to Ferdinand Axthelm, who survives. Surviving also are three sisters, Mrs. John Mochel and Mrs. Harvey Kraner of Rt. 6, Marion and W. T. Haas of Cardington.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the St. Paul's Lutheran church in Cardington. Burial will be in Glendale cemetery. Friends may call at the home until service time.

SERMON TOPICS

Rev. W. E. Budgett of the Marion Gospel center is announcing the following topics for Saturday and Sunday: 8 p. m. Saturday, "Jude and Our Father's Faith;" 11 a. m. Sunday, "Dressing for Victory!" and 8 p. m. Sunday, "Ahead, the World's Greatest Supper—Continued."

MASONS MEET

Work in the entered apprentice degree was conferred at a meeting of Sojourners Lodge No. 653, F. & A. M. Wednesday night. July 8 was set for work in the entered apprentice and master Mason degree, and July 15 for work in the master Mason degree.

TWO GAS STATIONS LOOTED BY BURGLARS

City police today were investigating two breakins last night or early today at Marion service stations, one which netted burglars three tires.

Entrance to the Firestone service station on East Center street was gained by shattering a rear window, police said. Three new tires, two 6.00x16 and one 6.25x16, were taken. They were valued at $50.

Three flashlights and several old coins were taken by thieves who entered the Gene Hill Fair Price gasoline station on Davids street. Windows in the front and rear of the station were shattered.

Treasury Report

WASHINGTON, July 3—The position of the treasury July 1 Receipts $22,128,697.27, expenditures $294,222,156.25, net balance $2,147,597,974.27, working balance included $2,532,948,589.82.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

'Where Were You?'

"YOU told Mr. Thorndike to pay him off," Bacon said to Hestor, "and he did, and Mr. Allen delivered them and got a receipt." He snorted softly. "Okay, I'll take that. That's a motive we can use. Before—or after—he was shot, somebody lifted that hundred grand." He shot a glance at Sergeant Keogh, who was leaning against the door-frame. "Not bad," he said, and turned again to Hestor.

"You don't seem very worried about that loss."

"I don't see how it concerns me now," she said. "The bonds were his, weren't they? I mean if you recovered them I couldn't have them, could I? Wouldn't they go in his estate?"

Bacon looked annoyed and did not bother to disguise his feelings as Hestor went on.

"Now all I have is a receipt for the bonds. I hope you find them because I hope you find out who killed him, but I don't see how it will do me any good." She twisted one hand and inspected the scarlet nails. "It's been rather a shock to me, you know. I still can't quite believe that he—that he's dead."

Her voice died away and there was a moment of silence while she regained control of it. "Neither do I quite understand your line of questioning. If I'd had any idea that such a thing was going to happen I certainly wouldn't have given him the money, would I? I could just as well have waited a day or two."

Once again, the telephone saved Bacon a reply. He sat down and answered it, saying:

"Bacon speaking. Yes, Mallov. You have, huh? . . . Good. Bring him out here. Yes, right away."

He was feeling better when he hung up. He rubbed his palms briefly, a gleam of satisfaction in his eyes.

"Mr. Thorndike . . . would you mind telling me the—ah—status of Mrs. Losado's account? That is, just what it amounts to and—"

"That's hardly a matter to discuss here," Thorndike said. "But if Mrs. Losado—"

"I don't mind at all."

Thorndike spread his hands. "Roughly it amounted to about a hundred and fifty thousand dollars."

"Before you handed out the hundred?"

"Yes."

Bacon went on with some other questions and Joyce Murdock took the opportunity to study Dean Thorndike. As always he was immaculate, and had any one been casting a movie that had to do with an investment counselor, he could have stepped right into the part just as he was.

"I see," Bacon said. "And how long has Mr. Allen worked for you?"

"Why—over a year now."

"He handles investment accounts the same as you do?"

"He has two clients of his own, yes."

"That's all he does?"

Thorndike smiled and shook his head. "As a matter of fact, a good part of my business has to do with the publishing of a market letter. I originally hired Ward to help out on it. He had the sort of training I needed and it worked out all right. Since then he was able to branch out with these two accounts which he developed, but he's still my assistant on the letter."

Bacon said, "Thanks very much. . . . How well did you know Clarke, Mr. Allen?"

Joyce stole a glance at her husband, noticing that he seemed attentive but unconcerned; then looked back at Ward Allen, who tossed a cigarette into the fireplace before he replied.

"Not very well," he said.

"You knew him in South America?"

"Well—yes."

"And you knew him well enough to have an argument with him last night."

Allen studied the lieutenant a moment, his blond face grave but otherwise expressionless. "Did I?"

"You did," Bacon said. "Right here in the hall. At least that's where the argument started. After that you went into the library."

"Perhaps I did," Allen said. "I remember now. The maid was in the hall, too, wasn't she?"

Bacon eyed him disgustedly and changed his tack. "What time did you get home last night?"

"Around ten."

"Stay in, did you?"

"Yes. I read until about one and then—"

"Then how does it happen that you put your car away around eleven thirty?"

Something happened to Ward Allen's face, tightening it about the mouth, yet when he spoke his voice remained polite and inflexible.

"Isn't that as good a time as any, Lieutenant? I didn't put it up when I came home because I thought I might go out again. Later I remembered it and had to go down and put it away."

"How far is the garage from your place?"

"You know as well as I do," Allen said. "It's a half a block, isn't it? Perhaps a little more."

"Hardly far enough, though, to bother with the hat and topcoat you were wearing."

"Far enough when it's chilly."

"I see." Bacon said, in a tone which indicated he neither saw nor believed. "What about you, Mrs. Murdock?"

Joyce smiled at him. "You mean, where was I?" Bacon nodded and she said: "I had dinner with Kent at nine and went home a little after ten."

"And stayed there?"

"Yes."

"Miss Stewart?"

Delia exchanged quick glances with Joyce, looked up at the ceiling and spoke with studied casualness. "I was home by ten, I think. I didn't go out again."

The police stenographer was jotting all this in a notebook and when Bacon decided he had everything down he inclined his head at Hestor.

"Were you here all evening?"

"I was exhausted," Hestor said. "Some of my guests didn't leave until after nine. I went directly to my room, took a hot bath and went to bed."

Bacon asked the same question of Murdock, who grinned and said he was working, and of Thorndike, who stated that he was at his club—he wasn't sure just when he left, but the boy on the desk could tell when he was checked out.

With this there was a sound of movement in the adjoining room. Keogh craned his neck, scowled and disappeared.

"John Nason's here," he said a moment later, and, stepped aside.

The man who entered was of average height and powerfully built. His face was smooth and squarish, his eyes blue and cold and his hair was so blond one had to look closely to find the streaks of gray. His tight-fitting top-coat was still buttoned and he carried his hat in his hand.

"Sorry to be late," he said after nodding stiffly to the room at large. "And I'm afraid I can't stay long. Just what was it you wanted of me, Lieutenant?"

Bacon told him, answering with equal bluntness. "Did you know Perry Clarke?"

"No."

"What about this, then?"

The lieutenant offered a slip of paper.

Gongwer Quits Race for Committee Post

Ivan H. Gongwer of Upper Sandusky has withdrawn as a Democratic candidate for state central committeeman from the Eighth congressional district, C. C. Ritzler, deputy clerk of the Marion county board of elections, reported today.

The withdrawal leaves Andrew T. Durbin of Kenton and J. A. Kleinfelter of New Washington in the race.

YOUR HEALTH

Fourth of July Hazards

THE FOURTH of July is still a day of some danger and in spite of the long campaign by the medical profession constant warnings to people of possible dangers and the regulations imposed by certain communities against the sale of various fireworks we still have a death and accident toll.

In fact, in 1941 we had more deaths than in 1940. There were eleven deaths due to fireworks and explosive injuries in 1941 as against eight in 1940. It is true that this is an improvement over other recent years. There were thirteen deaths in 1939, eighteen in 1938 and twenty in 1937.

Deaths, however, are not the only serious hazard. In 1941 there were nine people who had a loss of vision in one or both eyes, there were 141 people who had injuries to the eye, 17 people lost either a finger or a hand or other members and 91 people had some serious internal injury.

The most frequent cause of death in other years was from lockjaw. This has been almost entirely eliminated, partly due to the fact that there are almost no horses around any more and tetanus is an inhabitant of the intestines of horses. There was one death from tetanus in 1941. This followed eight days after a firecracker wound in the leg.

Tetanus anti-toxin administration was given as soon as the diagnosis was made but the patient died. This is the usual history: if the tetanus anti-toxin is not given until the symptoms occur, it seldom saves life. The lesson again is to use tetanus toxoid or anti-toxin immediately after the injury in the case of any open firecracker wound, no matter how trivial it may seem.

Once more the lesson is evident that communities in which there is strict enforcement concerning the sale and regulation of fireworks are those in which Fourth of July injuries are reduced to a minimum. The soft-hearted attitude that "little boys should have their fun" and that no restrictions should be placed upon the use of high explosives and elaborate night fireworks simply means a certain amount of permanent disability with the possible danger of such a tragedy as blindness.

Legislation alone is not enough it must be followed up by strict enforcement. In New Jersey, for instance, which was one of the first states to adopt adequate legislation for the restriction of fireworks, there was a steady rise in the number of accidents, due to a laxity in enforcement of the law, until last year when this was brought to a striking and sudden stop. The result was attributed to press releases, to an embargo placed on all shipments of fireworks into that state and to the effectiveness with which the new law was enforced not only in New Jersey but also in the neighboring state New York.

C. E. L.—Are doses of fifteen drops of iodine, if taken over a long period of time, harmful for an inward goiter?

Answer: I do not believe that iodine should be taken over a longer period than ten days because it is capable of causing a very severe skin eruption. It does no harm to take it for ten days and then rest ten days and then continue again.
